This government in the next fiscal year will spend $3,494,222,308. What becomes of the one hundred cents in each dollar of government expenditure?

Three and one-third cents represent the regular cost of government. More than 16 cents are spent keeping ready for war—and we are not 1 per cent ready.

Military pensions, life insurance, annuities, etc., take more than 16 cents.

Interest on the public debt takes 22 cents out of every dollar. Paying off the war debt takes 14 cents. You might remember that when you talk about getting this country into the League of Nations, or world court, which would mean more debt and more interest.

A girl with no rouge on her face wins the health prize at Barnard college. Miss Elizabeth Metzger, aged 20, is 5 feet 4½ inches tall, weighs 120 pounds. She wears high heels, but you can't expect everything. No rouge or lip stick ever touches her skin. She gives the pores of her face a chance to breathe and that means health.

Other young women please take notice. A beautiful complexion that can be bought by the ounce shouldn't interest any young man worth marrying.

Sir Oliver Lodge is old, but thinks well. He says evolution and creation are both true and suggests that man,

Eleven Buildings Will Receive Awards of $50 Bonds.

BREAK RECORD

Largest Collection is Made by High Students.

Pupils in the public and parochial schools collected $800.86 through the sale of Christmas health seals, according to a report which was submitted today to Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, campaign chairman, by Superintendent of Schools C. S. McVay.

The public schools and the St. Aloysius parochial school sold $50 or more worth of the stamps, which entitles each building to a $50 bond, offered by the local committee. This bond will be displayed in the corridors of the schools.

The sales of health seals this year exceeded that of last year by $236.16. Children, during the 1924 campaign, disposed of $574.70 worth of the penny adhesives. A house-to-house canvass was made by the children this year.

TWO TRUCKS DESTROYED AS BLAZE RAZES GARAGE WEST OF YELLOW CREEK

Building Owned by Terry Carman, of East Liverpool, is Swept by Flames Early Friday Evening.

OVERHEATED COAL STOVE IS BLAMED

Touring Car, Usually Kept in Building Saved as Employe Drives it to His Home.

Two motor trucks, one of them a five-ton Mack, were completely destroyed when fire razed a garage owned by the Carman Coal company on the Irondale road, about a mile west of the McCullough-Jefferson County Children's Home, Yellow Creek, at 8 o'clock last night. The loss is estimated at $8,000, partially covered by insurance.

Tools and Supplies Destroyed

The fire is believed to have originated from an overheated coal stove. When the garage was locked for the night, the fire in the stove was banked. The blaze was not discovered until it had gained a big headway and it was impossible to remove either of the two machines.

The Mack truck was recently purchased, while the other machine, a Dodge, was also in good condition. The two machines were valued at about $7,000. Another automobile, a touring car, usually kept in the garage during the night, was driven to Irondale by one of the workmen last night.

In the garage at the time of the fire were a quantity of oil, tools, and other supplies and equipment, all being destroyed. No insurance was carried on the building, which is a total loss.

The mine is owned and operated by Terry Carman, who also operates the Carman hotel, Sixth street.

POLICE RECOVER STOLEN MACHINES

Two automobiles, one stolen Wednesday evening and the other Thursday night, have been recovered, police said today.

An Overland coupe belonging to Ralph Kapp, of the Lincoln Highway, which disappeared while parked on Washington street near the John Keil store Wednesday, was located in Sebring, where it had been abandoned.

A Chevrolet touring car belonging to J. H. Mayhew, of Pughtown, which was stolen Thursday evening while parked on Sixth street, was located in Thompson park where it had been stripped of its tires and accessories.

CITY LEASES MARKET STREET BUILDING FOR HOME OF COURT

Council Approves Plan to Rent Thompson Structure.

TWO-YEAR TERM

Necessity of Renting Disgrace to People, Says Farrall.

Legislation, providing for the leasing of the second and third floors of the George C. Thompson building at the northwest corner of Market and Fourth streets, as the home for the new municipal court, to be established here January 1, was unanimously passed on three readings under suspension of the rules by council last night.

Inasmuch as the ordinance must take effect immediately, it contained an emergency clause and becomes a law upon the signature of Mayor Brown, which was affixed today.

The ordinance fixes the rental price at $75 per month for two floors. The lease is for a term of two years, with privilege of renewal for another two years at the same price.

Council rejected a proposal from the owner of the building, presented by Attorney W. B. Hill, representing the bar association, for a five-year lease. Light, heat and water rent must be paid by the city, according to the terms of the agreement.

Debate Over Policemen.

"It is a shame and a disgrace that a city of 25,000 people is forced to rent a building for court purposes," said Solon Farrall. "We have fine theatres, fine churches, fine lodge homes but the people who own these buildings are satisfied with a delapidated building such as we have here for a city hall.

"The city has real estate which is well worth $100,000. Then we have $37,000 in the market house fund. If we could turn this money into one fund we could build a decent municipal building. Let the various civic organizations get in back of a movement for a new city building. I would favor such a step."

An ordinance authorizing the safety director to purchase caps and equipment for members of the police force which was passed on first reading two weeks ago, was adopted on second reading by a vote of 5 to 2, Kerr and Farrall opposing it. Farrall asserted that the city auditor had told him that the state examiner had ruled that the city could not purchase caps.

Records for Bills Of Sale for Autos In County Broken

All records for the recording of bills of sale for automobiles have been shattered this month at Lisbon, due to the new Lipp bill which requires this action in order to obtain a 1926 license.

More than 500 bills were turned in for recording during the first 10 days of December. Automobile license commissioners throughout the county have been instructed to issue no plates to applicants who fail to show a bill of sale and who have not reported their machines for personal property tax.

Girl, 9, Walking In Her Sleep, Is Shot By Father; May Die

Jersey City Man, Mistaking Daughter for Burglar, Fires Into Darkness as he Hears Sound.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Dec. 12.—Nine-year-old Rose Carene, walking in her sleep early today, was shot and seriously wounded by her father, Anthony, who mistook her for a burglar.

Rose is in the City hospital, the roof of her mouth torn away and three teeth missing from her lower jaw. Her condition is critical.

The father was awakened by the sound of the outside door closing as the little girl passed into the outside hall. Thinking a burglar was trying to make an entrance he took a revolver from under his pillow and waited in the darkness for "the burglar" to make another sound.

Rose had in the meantime mounted the stairs to the apartment above occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Sorrentino. Mrs. Sorrentino awakened the child and would have led her into her apartment but Rose shook her head fretfully, saying she was "going back to my bed."

The father, standing in the darkness, heard the door swing open and fired blindly into the dark. Rose crumpled in a heap at his feet.

Police arrested him. He will be arraigned this afternoon.

COLUMBUS MAN DIES AFTER ASSASSIN FRACTURES HIS SKULL WITH AX

Wife, Also Murderously Assaulted as She Lay Sleeping in Home, Believes Slayer Was Negro.

Police today are continuing their search for the unidentified murderer.

Mrs. Berry told police the murderer is a Negro about 30 years old. She said he first attacked her husband and then threatened to kill her if she refused to comply with a request he made. She remembered nothin, she said, after she screamed.

Marie, little daughter, of Mrs. and Mrs. Berry, said the assailant was a "white man, tall as the house, with big jaws and a mustache.'

Officers working on the case this morning had been unable to assign any motive for the crime other than that of robbery. They were informed that $50, saved by Berry for Christmas, was missing from a pocket in one of Mrs. Berry's aprons.

ARKANSAS POSSES SCOUR WOODS FOR SLAYER OF MARRIED WOMAN

Lynching Feared as 100 Officers and Citizens Engaged in Man-Hunt for Negro Suspect.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 12.—More than 100 officers and citizens were engaged in a man-hunt here today for a negro who murdered Mrs. Lena Blevins, 28, when the woman resisted the negro's attempt to assault her. Lynching is feared.

According to the story told by Mrs. Blevins before her death, she was passing a clump of bushes, when the negro stepped from cover, leveled a shot gun at her, and ordered her to accompany him into the woods. She screamed, and the negro fired, wounding her so seriously that she died a hours later.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 12.—Governor Donahey and P. E. Thomas, warden of the Ohio penitentiary, today sent a joint telegram to Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Tombs, Detroit, suggesting that the trial of James ("Big Jim") Morton, Cleveland bank robber, scheduled to begin at Detroit Monday on the charge of robbing a Detroit bank "proceed in due course." But, if Morton is not convicted, Donahey nad Thomas asked Homs to "hold Morton for Ohio.'

The governor also today delegated full power to Former Common Pleas Judge Odrian Newcomb, Cleveland, to represent the governor in connection with plans for bringing back Morton to the penitentiary here to serve the rest of his sentence imposed as a result of robbing the Cleveland bank.

Back in Washington as a newspaperwoman, Miss Alice announced today she was overjoyed by the greetings giver her on Capitol Hill.

"I'm so glad to be back," said Aunt Alice. "Every one treats me lovely and when I ask the boys for news, they say, 'Give it to them, Miss Alice, tell the truth about them.'

"But I don't want to be critical or say mean things about congressmen. They are only big grown-up boys."

VOTE, 4 TO 3, AGAINST PROBE OF SEARCH OF WRONG HOUSE

Charge Three Patrolmen Humiliated East End Widow.

URGE SUSPENSION

Smith, Roth and Cline Raiders, City Hall Says.

Charges that three members of the police force had "blundered" in visiting the wrong place, the home of a "respectable East End woman," during a raid last Saturday night, were made last night on the floor of the council chamber by Solons N. P. Kerr and Thomas Farrall, in an effort to bring about an investigation of the incident.

Blame One Patrolman

Suspension of one patrolman, who was "responsible for the mistake" and the "humiliation suffered by the innocent victim, whose home from cellar to attic" is alleged to have been searched by the raiders, pending a councilmanic inquiry, was demanded by both Kerr and Farrall.

Councilman Hayes, while expressing the belief that council had no jurisdiction in the matter, said that he favored an investigation to "get to the bottom of the affair." The four other members, however, opposed the step and the move was lost by a vote of four to three.

Names of the three police officers making the raid and the place alleged to have been visited, were not made public. Councilman Kerr asserted that he and Farrall talked with the woman and, at her request, promised that her name would not be revealed.

The raid, according to records on file at city hall, was made by Patrolman Chester Smith, who was assisted

BIG BUSINESS IS GOING TO SAY "MERRY CHRISTMAS" THIS YEAR WITH DISTRIBUTION OF APPROXIMATELY $250,000,000 TO THEIR EMPLOYEES

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Big business is going to say "merry Christmas" this year with dollars—millions of them.

It's going to be a real "dollar Christmas" with hundreds of firms and corporations.

With business booming on an unprecedented scale throughout the United States, business firms already are beginning to play Santa Claus in a more generous way than ever before in the country's history.

In New York alone business firms will give to their employees, it was estimated today, approximately $75,000,000. That will be about $25,000,000 more than last year.

Elsewhere, throughout the country, correspondingly generous gifts will be made. How much is anybody's estimate — probably $250,000,000.

Big, Fat Bonuses.

Big, fat Christmas bonuses to employes and stockholders are being announced daily, and more of this glad news is coming.

All sorts of cash payments and special dividends are being made public. The extra distributions ordered in the last 10 days will reach well up into the tens of millions.

Wall street, having enjoyed the greatest business year in its history, is planning to make it a very merry Christmas, if money gifts will do it. Brokers never have done such a collosal business as in the last twelve months. There were, for instance, two days in November when more than 3,000,000 shares of stock were dealt in in a single day on the exchange. Nothing like in the number of deals since the days of the Northern Pacific "corner" in 1901. Business is so good that today seats on the New York stock exchange are selling around $150,000 and it is freely predicted they will go up to $200,000. Seats on the New York curb exchange have moved up in price from $9,000 to $25,000 since last spring.

Reward for Wall Street Personnel.

The personnel of Wall street, who have been rushed of late as never before, are going to be rewarded in their Christmas stocking, brokers indicated today to a reporter who made the rounds of "the street."

Banks, motor companies, packing houses, oil corporations and various other and varied industries, here and elsewhere, are going to reward their employes and stockholders, too.

Not since war days has there been a time, as in the case of the last two weeks, when so many distributions, in the form of dividends and special dividends, have been announced. Here are some of them:

The Washington Oil company, one of the Standard oil group, is going to pay a 300 per cent stock dividend.

Mack Trucks, Inc., has ordered a 25 per cent dividend. At present prices this dividend aggregates millions.

The Cerro de Pasco Copper company has declared an extra dividend of $1 a share — a cool million for stockholders.

Libby, McNeil & Libby, noted Chicago packers, have declared depression at an end and resumed paying dividends at $3.50 a share. pany declared the regular quar- The Chicago Title and Trust comterly dividend of 4 per cent and an extra 5 per cent cash dividend, payable to stockholders on record December 19. A fund of $100,000 was appropriated as a Christmas bonus to 1,300 employes.

The New York Title and Mortgage company and the American Trust company announced that the 1,110 employes of the company would receive a profit-sharing distribution amounting to 28 per cent of their salaries.

The United States Steel corporation, with its 5,000,000 shares, will continue its present habit formed last year of paying 50 cents a share extra quarterly, or not far from $2,500,000.

Household Products, which manufactures Castoria, is making a Christmas gift of 50 cents a share extra, or $600,000.

Wrigley Gum will give an extra half dollar a share, or $900,000.

These are but a comparative few of the announcements of gladsome Yuletide news that are tumbling over each other to give themselves expression. Moreover, many important dividend increases are looked for before the end of the year. The Baltimore and Ohio railroad and the Pennsylvania railroad are expected to order increases shortly and the Southern Railway company has just announced an increase of 5 to 7 per cent, or about $2,400,000.

THE KINGDOM OF MESSIAH

millions now living will never die

Surely the time when God's will is done on earth as in heaven, is not a period of uneventful bliss and passive inertness, as some people believe.

The kingdom of God, which was foretold by the prophets and for which Jesus taught His disciples to pray, is a new world on earth, bettered by a more nearly perfect man.

And a perfect man possesses ideals and capabilities to be employed in the creation of better conveniences and the exploration of the phenomena of natural forces.

To know of God's plan for the everlasting life of mankind on earth is to lift those depressing feelings that weigh so heavily upon them now.

A Little Word About Going to Church

As Christmas approaches and the gay, joyous season comes upon us, we ought to think of what made it possible.

What meaneth all this exchange of gifts? What Great Personality made it possible?

Think of that FORCE that was set in motion some two thousand years ago in the Bethlehem Manger!

Wide Underground River Discovered in Texas

San Marcos, Texas.—Discovery of what is believed to be an underground river of a width of perhaps one-half mile and of undeterminable depth, has transformed the arid region 15 to 25 miles northeast of here into a veritable paradise of verdure and growing crops within a period of three months.

It was during the height of the recent severe drought that Ben W. Pyland, a farmer, decided to dig a well on his place in a search of water. He was ridiculed for attempting to get water in that locality by digging a well.

Pyland commenced digging and at a depth of 20 feet he struck a cap of limestone. Using his pick vigorously he punctured this covering and there immediately gushed forth a small torrent of water. He enlarged the hole by exploding a charge of dynamite, and the water poured into the well, almost filling it to the top.

Other farmers in the section began digging wells and several of them obtained water in apparently inexhaustible quantities.

"Winds of Chance," With All-star Cast, American Booking

Featuring a cast in proportion and prominence seldom equaled in a single production, the American theatre on Monday will display Frank Lloyd's "Winds of Chance," a First National adaptation of Rex Beach's sensational novel of the same title.

Anna Q. Nilsson, Viola Dana, Ben Lyon, Victor McLaglen, Hobart Bosworth, Dorothy Sebastian, Claude Gillingwater, Philo McCollough, Chas. Crockett, Fred Kohler, John T. Murray and Wade Boteler are among the principal members of the company which has re-eneacted the thrilling struggles and romance of the Alaskan gold rush of 1897 and 1898 which Mr. Beach wove into an absorbing yarn.

"Winds of Chance" is said to represent the most accurate film play of its kind ever attempted, and, produced by the man who made the famous "The Sea Hawk" on the same pretentious scale, the pictorial story of our last frontier, with its wildness, its unique friendships, its quick fortunes and its failures, is reputed to be replete with thrilling incidents, surprises and tense dramatic scenes with unusual heart appeal.

Numerous sourdoughs who participaated in the actual rush to Dawson City after the discovery of gold and several of the Arctic's most celebrated gamblers are among the thousands of characters who support the principal members of the cast.

Wig parties, the guests wearing colored head coverings, are popular in England.

MINE WORKERS IN BIG DEMAND

An unusually heavy demand for common or unskilled labor during November is noted in the report for that month of C. M. O'Neal, examiner in charge of the federal-state employment office, but it is slackening up now.

Except for slight increases in certain sections the "demand for miners remains about the same as reported for October, says the report, "but there is still a surplus of clerical and professional help, both male and female, such as stenographers, store clerks and bookkeepers. Practically all the calls we are now having for this class of help comes from the mining sections of the state and that demand is for less than the supply.

Calls for common labor are falling off considerably, and Mr. O'Neal expects a surplus of this sort of labor from now until March 1. Not a few common laborers, however, are going to the mines and are placed with experienced miners at loading coal.

MOST BRITONS DISLIKE TALK OF REVOLUTION

Royal Welcome to Wales Exemplifies Real Views.

REDS IN ISLES

Communists Beaten up When Advocate Uprising.

LONDON—It is only here, in the heart of the British empire, that little talk is heard of a revolution in Britain, or of some strange eruption in the state which will place communists in power and attempt to emulate the deeds of Soviet Russia.

Revolution takes a terrible lot of making in Britain. In fact, the average Britisher hates the word. For centuries he has enjoyed all the political liberty he desires and nothing hurts him more than unnecessary disturbance.

Two instances may exemplify the British attitude towards revolution. On October 16 the Prince of Wales returned from a six months' tour of South Africa and South America. This little jaunt cost the country just about $2,500,000. The prince is heir to the British throne. Did the people of Britain resent this expenditure?

Two Million Greet Him.

No! On the other hand, on the day of his return, some two million people stood for hours in pouring rain, just to give him a welcome greeting home. They surged around Buckingham palace and shouted for him until he, with his father, mother, brothers and sisters, came out on the balcony to reciprocate that welcome. The same night the king of England issued a statement, thanking every one for the wonderful reception given to our "dear son" and that message was the sole topic of conversation at the breakfast table in hundreds of thousands of British homes next morning.

Does that look like revolution?

Take the second fact. A year ago a Labor government was in power in Britain. It certainly never showed any revolutionary tactics. Indeed, some of us in close touch with it regarded it retrograde and reactionary. But one thing it did do. At its annual labor conference it expelled Communists from the membership of its party Hardly a revolutionary measure.

At this year's conference, held in September, a great majority refused even to consider the Communists' request for readmission.

Reds Beaten Up.

While the British army maneuvers were in operation a few weeks ago, a number of Communists attempted to distribute revolutionary handbills among the troops engaged. The matter has been hushed up, but a number of them were so badly beaten up by the troops that they had to be sent to the hospital.

Scotland Yard watches Communists closely, especially those suspected of having any connection with, or receiving money from Moscow. The police estimate the total number of Communists in England, Scotland and Wales at about 5,000.

Several other recruits would be needed before a revolution could be staged!

How Much Tax?

While there is so much talk about taxes, it is just as well to get the figures straight. If all of us in the United States, men, women and children, paid taxes equally, we would be paying at the present rate, $70.79 a year. Call it $71.00.

That means about $350 a year for an average family. No wonder we're interested in taxes, whether we pay them directly on income, personal property or real estate, or only indirectly as part of the cost of rent, merchandise and human services.

And where do the taxes go? The biggest item, $33.64, goes to pay the expenses of local government, the improvements, protections and miscellaneous benefits of organized political society visible right around us, in the town and county. The average state takes $9.55. The federal government takes $27.78.

The trend is more important, perhaps, than the present status of these taxes. The federal tax, which a few years ago was the largest, is falling off as the war burdens grow less. It was $48.27 in 1919. The local taxes have increased meanwhile 48 per cent, and the state taxes 75 per cent.

This is not necessarily wrong, unuwise or wasteful. Part of the increase comes from the lessened value of the dollar, or higher prices. Part comes from the new standards visible in nearly everything since the war; Americans are demanding more in the way of public service, and getting more.

Rising taxes suggest life, progress, improvement. The community, like the separate families, is living better, and is probably making the money to do it with.

But there is always danger of over-doing, splurging, squandering, in public as in private affairs. It takes a wise public to discriminate between public enterprise and public waste.

Readable Signatures

Fresh effort is being made in Canada to improve the handwriting of school children. The Toronto Globe appears to regard it as futile, however, and cites the fact that vertical letters, backhand and round-hand formations, the forward slant, free forearm movement and numerous other systems have long since been tried in vain. Copy books may be fairly respectable in appearance but almost all other writing remains poor. Business men's signatures frequently are illegible and have to be repeated in typewriting before they can be deciphered.

"We may as well call it a gift, let it go at that—and turn to the typewriter," says the Globe.

Undoubtedly the present-day tendency to hurry through with everything is one cause of poor penmanship. The hand writer doesn't take time to form the letters as neatly as he did in copy book days. Lack of practice, too, has some influence. Letter-writing isn't the leisurely and finished art it is said once to have been. Today we "dash off" a communication to a friend and the result is very far from beautiful, and often very far even from legibility.

Perhaps handwriting is old-fashioned and inefficient and deserves to become a lost art because the typewriter and printing press have made it unnecessary.

But as long as written signatures to documents and communications remain legally important, it does seem as if something might be done to make readable signatures fashionable. About all the average business man writes nowadays is his own name—why not do a better job on that?

World Trade Recovers

The department of commerce finds that the total volume of international trade this year will exceed pre-war trade for the first time since 1914.

Last year showed a notable advance. The aggregate trade of 63 countries representing nine-tenths of the world's trade was $53,000,000,000 against $40,000,000,000 in 1913. The amount this year will be larger.

European trade is still considerably below the pre-war level, with that of the United States and the rest of the world proportionately above. But Europe itself is making hopeful progress. There is a marked improvement found in European conditions, in spite of the demoralization of French finance and the unemployment in England. At last reconstruction begins to seem a reality.

It is a particularly good prospect for America, and largely responsibible for the wave of business optimism sweeping this country lately.

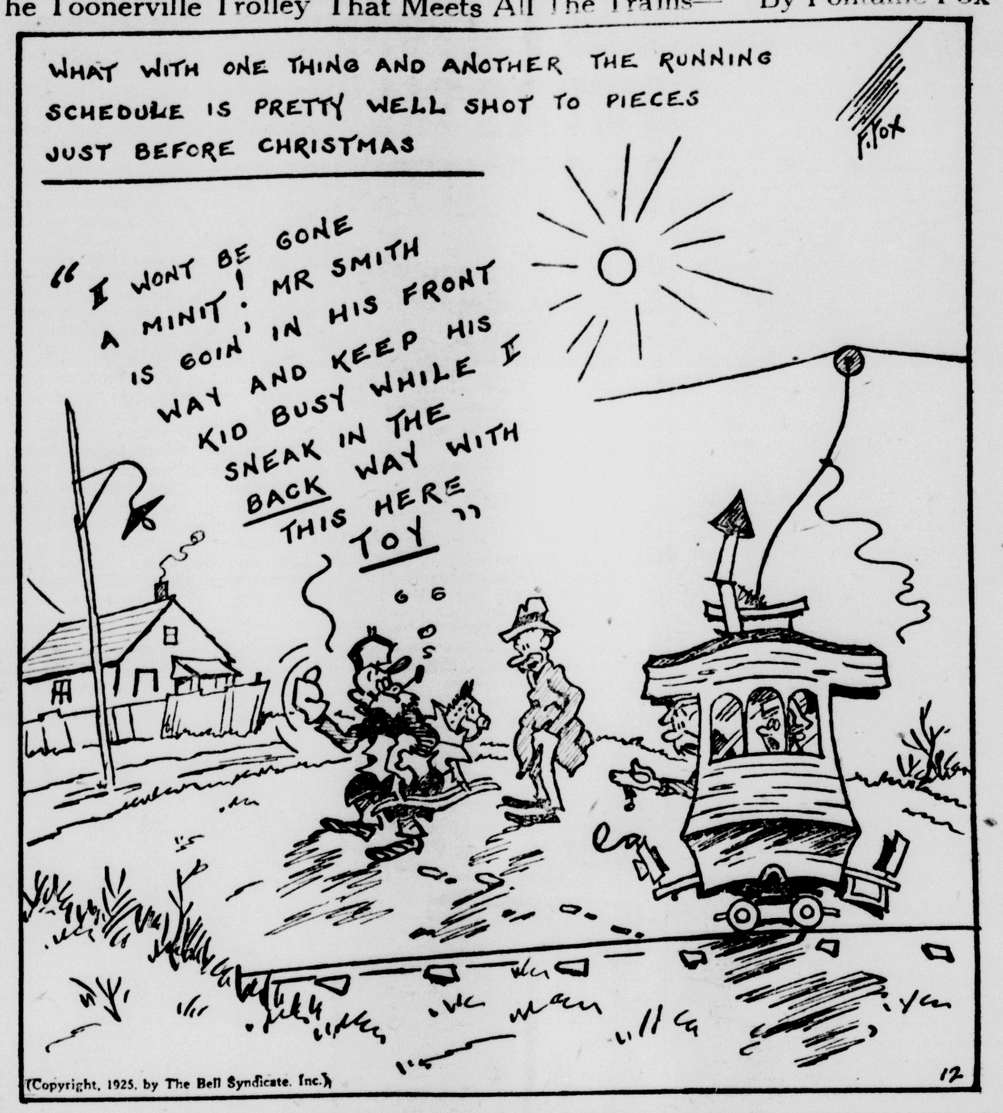

Radio Philanthropy

At last the radio philanthropist has arrived. Other rich men give money to colleges, libraries, museums, charities. William H. Taylor, of New York, chooses to spend his on radio. He has bought a $140,000 broadcasting station known as WHAP, and proposes to operate it at a probable cost of $75,000 a year, purely for the public benefit.

There will be no jazz in the programs, he says, and no advertising, and in the discussion of public questions both sides will be given. Thus three things to which many radio listeners object will be eliminated. It will be an unuusual combination of what might be called pure entertainment and instruction.

It is a fine field for philanthropy, but much will depend on its operation. That calls for unusual judgment as well as money. The experiment will be watched with interest, and may lead to others of the same nature.

The Toonerville Trolley That Meets All The Trains— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—The graveled walk around the reservoir in Central Park at twilight seems far from the city's throb all about it. Arabesque shadows fall from leafless trees. Only the soft slow clump of late riders on the bridle path disturbs a ghostly stillness.

Timid squirrels whisk from tree to tree on the last sly forage of the night. Hundreds who know the haunting melancholy of the metropolitan dusk come there to stroll and perhaps lose themselves in reverie. There are poets, painters and lovers hand in hand.

The obelisk rises in stark, white gracefulness against the velvet plush of sky and is often tipped by a thin wafer of moon. A mounted patrolman, muzzling his mount with his cheek, stands silhouetted under a stone arched bridge.

To the east, Fifth Avenue's necklace of amber lights gives a faint lace-like tracery to the stately mansions of Millionaire's Row. In New York there is always that odd, mystic hiatus—the hour that bridges the end of the workday and the gush of evening pleasures.

Southward, Broadway's nocturnal borealis is tingling the heavens with its incandescence. It is the corybantic splender symbolizing a city's pantheism—the Promethean flame of gay artificiality. (Another big word and you sit in the front row with Percy Hammond).

Where was I? O, yes — don't tell me, I know—the gravel path of the reservoir. It is the only place in the city where motion seems abstract. It is said in later years Carnegie circled the path when he was unskeining his intricate problems.

It is the haunt of Edna Ferber when she is in the throes of fictional outbursts and the serene beauty has inspired Charles Hanson Towne, Berton Braley and also Edna Millay, it is said, to many gorgeous madrigals and sonnets.

A walk around the reservoir at dusk, followed by a meal at one of those dim-lit Russian cafes with wailing, langorous music, and there is nothing left to do but bust right out crying.

There is even a brooding calm about waitresses in Russian safes. They move about in a sad, quiet way, a fitting touch to the shadowy sombre background. Patrons somehow catch the mood and talk in whispers. A hearty laugh seems as out of place as a cowboy whoop in a cathedral. And it has been my experience the gloom doesn't lift with the check. The Russian makes his lugubrious "atmosphere" pay. One has a $6 table de hote dinner. All that distinguishes it from the average table de hote dinner is a Volga boat song on an accordion.

There are daily more than 1,000 traders on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, aside from messengers and reporters. The clatter is bewildering to the stranger. It becomes a ceaseless panorama of a military throng leaping about to cabalistic abbreviation. In a minute a transaction with a customer in San Franciso is completed over the wire. The floor is littered with a Mardi Gras shower of paper. The faces are mostly harried and pale. Sometimes a ghostly figure rushes outside for air. The annunciators calling brokers to the telephone booths give forth a quacking noise like a thousand ducks frightened into flight. The biggest bedlam is shortly before the gong sounds at 3 o'clock for the closing of another day.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Churches Make War on War.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The National Study Conference on the Churches and World Peace has just been held in this city. An official check-up showed that 1,163 delegates attended these sessions. They came from 30 communions and represented millions of church members. The only large Protestant denomination which did not take part in this conference was the Lutheran.

In addition to the official representatives of the various Protestant bodies, a number of Catholics attended in an unofficial capacity. These included such prominent adherents to this faith as Prof. Richard J. Purcell, of the Catholic University, and the Rev. Philip H. Burkett, of Georgetown University. There were also members of the National Council of Catholic Women at some of the sessions. Although they were not official delegates they were invited to join in the discussions.

The conference was unique in that except for the welcoming address of Bishop William F. McDowell, there were no set speeches. A person having a thought about the question before the meeting simply arose, gave his name and that of the city from which he came and then had his say.

The manner in which the conference was called was also unusual. In May, 1924, the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church issued a call to the churches and the nation to put an end to the menace of war. With characteristic fervor it passed resolutions and took the lead by establishing a commission of 15. Other churches followed suit, and the commissions and committees in turn formed a committee of arrangements for the study conference just held. It was therefore an officially called conference of the churches to study out a common church program for dealing with the question of war.

Dr. Sidney L. Gulick in explaining the conference and its background before it met said: "What do the churches of America as a whole think about war? And about peace? Are they or are they not essentially pacifists? Were another war to come, would they do again what they did in 1917 and 1918? Do they have any distinctive message about war and any distinctive program for establishing permanent peace? As matters now stand, nobody can answer any of these questions, for the simple reason that the churches have never faced them seriously—or together. This is the reason for the National Study Conference on the Churches and World Peace."

First Conference of Its Kind.

The question of a permanent peace and the best way to insure it has been before the individual denominations, but this is the first time they have all got together for the purpose of studying the many perplexing questions arising in this connection.

A 20-page syllabus was prepared and a copy sent to each delegate. It fairly oozed contentious questions such as "Does or does not the church have a duty in regard to the abolition and outlawry of war? Just what was the teaching of Jesus? Was or was He not a pacifist? Is or is not the church interfering with the state in undertaking to deal with these matters? Does or does not a man have the right to refuse obedience to the call of his country?" The delegates were requested to study and decide before coming to the conference which of these questions they wished to discuss.

The expectation that there would be many violent utterances and many extreme points of view expressed was fulfilled. Those in charge of releasing publicity for the conference were so confident that this would be so that in advance of the meeting the daily press was requested when carrying notice of such statements to make it clear that the majority did not concur in these statements—that they were merely the personal views of the individuals. They emphasized the fact that only the final decisions of the entire body, adopted by large majorities, should be regarded as expressing the mind and will of the churches.

The conference was interesting in itself—without regard to the decisions arrived at. The delegates represented viewpoints from the most militaristic to the most extreme pacifist. An impassioned plea against compulsory military training in colleges, elective military training in high schools, the Reserve Officers' Training Corps and the Citizens' Military Training camps, was replied to with an equally ardent plea that the youth of the nation be trained so that in the event of another war they would be prepared. They would not have to go forth with such meager training as was the case in the recent World war. The argument of those denouncing the military training of the youth of the country was that in such training is bred the thought of the militaristic.

What Causes Wars.

After a prolonged discussion as to whether the conference should pass a resolution declaring itself opposed to such military training, a man well known throughout the nation for his fair play in dealing with his employes, arose and said in part: "It seems to me that we are not getting anywhere. We should be studying the cause of war to the end that some means might be devised for doing away with it. Wars do not come out of the mouths of cannon, or off the decks of battleships." To which there was moderate applause, and a continuance of the regular procedure of voting on the resolution.

There was considerable debate over the question of saying the "white" and "yellow" races or the Occidental and Oriental races. Regarding a suggested method of stating a motion, one delegate announced that he agreed with the change except that it did not make grammar. Through all of the discussion, however, no matter how divergent the points of view might be, there was sincerity. Each delegate was striving for what in his own mind he believed to be right.

At the final session the report of the conference was adopted without a dissenting vote. The principal items of this report stated that the church would not sanction war, but that the matter of individual participation in conflicts was a matter of individual judgment. Another important part of the report was the set of recommendations relative to a program of education for world peace. In these stress was laid upon the importance of the individual congregation in the furthering of international good will. It was also decided that a conference shall be called at some later date to report upon the progress made in this connection.

This conference will no doubt cause much debate. There will be those thoroughly out of sympathy with such a meeting. Those, however, who sponsored the movement are sincere in their belief that the mere fact that demonstrations with widely differing ideas of ritual were able to find a common ground for a crusade for a warless world, marks a real contribution to the progress of mankind.

Community Observance Planned by Kiwanis Club.

Wellsville will have its annual community Christmas observance, officers of the Kiwanis club here announced today.

Plans for the erection of a monster Christmas tree in the public square have been started by Kiwanis club committees and within the next week or 10 days the tree will be placed in position and ready for its decorations.

On next Tuesday, at the noon luncheon meeting of the organization, in the Riverview hotel, Miss Jennie E. Perry, community welfare nurse, employed by the American Sheet and Tin Plate plant here, will tell Kiwanians of "The Work of a Community Nurse."

A community nurse who will devote her entire time to work in the city will be employed here next year if tentative plans now considered by the club are carried out.

TORONTO BOASTS CENSUS OF 6,558

The distinction of being the largest city except Steubenville in Jefferson county is borne by Toronto, which now boasts a population of 6,558 inhabitants, representing a 40 percent increase in the six years since the 1920 federal census.

One direct cause for the gain in Toronto's growth may be attributed to the Follansbee Brothers' mill, which now employes about 1,200 men, none of whom were included in the last government census.

Handle of Washington's Coffin Given to Chapel

Valley Forge, Pa.—A handle from the coffin box that held George Washington's first coffin and a hand-wrought flag bracket were presented to the Washington Memorial chapel here by the children of Richard Blackburn Washington and Christian Martha Washington, descendants of a brother of General Washington.

In presenting the gift George Steptoe Washington, a direct descendant of the President's brother, John Augustin Washington, added a story of a controversy among the kindred of George Washington.

The controversy arose over space in the vault adjoining the President's tomb. There was space for only one more burial and the question was debated whether this space should be used.

PONZI EXPECTS TO PAY DEBTS IN LAND DEALS

"Get Rich Quick" Wizard Now in Jacksonville.

SEES FORTUNE

Lives in Modest Home; Hopes to Settle Obligation.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Charles Ponzi no longer resides in a mansion.

The "financial wizard" who controlled millions in 1920 today lives in a furnished room on the second floor of a modest frame flat here.

Ponzi does his own cooking and housework, in the hopes, he says, of quickening his plans for amassing another fortune by the nation-wide sale of Florida real estate, repaying his creditors, who lost in his activities in International Reply coupons.

Ponzi estimates that he still owes approximately $4,000,000. He has promised a 200 per cent return in about 60 days, either in cash or in land, to investors in the Charpon Land Syndicate, the organizations through which he expects to finance his real estate holdings.

Wears Old Suit.

Ponzi here is clothed in a suit of white knickers made by an exclusive Boston tailor in 1920, during his palmy days.

The suit was preserved carefully by Mrs. Ponzi during the past six years. The financial wizard always is well dressed.

Ponzi now has his office in a basement of West Forsyth street in the heart of Jacksonville's business district. He walks to work each morning to save a dime street car fare.

Ponzi's office is furnished as simply as is his room.

It is in this room that he works out his plans for "rehabilitating himself in the eyes of the American public." For hours at night, he pours over maps of various Florida counties, choosing sites for his subdivisions. He obtained enough money, so his records show, to start his nation-wide campaign from friends and relatives in Boston and elsewhere, who believed in his ability to make good.

Once an Artist.

It is in this flat that Ponzi has done much of the engineering work for his subdivisions. Ponzi is considered a fair artist, for prior to his residence in Boston he was a sign painter for many years.

He practiced his craft in various southern states several years ago, including Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana and Texas.

At one time he was a librarian in a small southern college, and he has had three years' training as a medical student.

Ponzi expects to make millions in Florida after he has paid his creditors. It is his dream, so he says, to make it possible for the man of average means in the north, to possess lots in Florida on which he may build a bungalow at small cost, and spent a certain amount of time each year "in the land of perpetual sunshine."

Ex-service Man Sees Bergdoll in Florida City.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 12.—Police here today were investigating reports that Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, noted draft evader, was seen in St. Petersburg.

R. L. Knight, ex-service man, reported to police that he was stopped on the street by a man who asked to be directed to the local post of the American Legion, saying:

"If it can be arranged for me to get my property in Philadelphia returned to me I intend to surrender, but if I can't get it back, then to hell with surrendering. I know you think I'm crazy, but I am Grover Bergdoll."

instead of denying his relationship to the lower animals, including the monkeys, should "work the ape out of his nature."

Man should get rid of the ape that works within him, also of the pig that drives him to vice and gluttony, the tiger that provides ferocity and the heavy-toed sloth that holds us back from work.

Many soldiers lie in graves with no name. What should you write above such graves? The war department has approved this inscription:

Here rests in honored glory an American soldier, known but to God.

That is admirable. But wouldn't you add two or three lines about keeping out of European entanglements to save other young Americans from that kind of unknown glory.

There is glory, undoubtedly, but not much satisfaction in having young Americans shot because Europeans cannot resist the temptation to invade each other's territory and cut each other's throats.

Marshall Field & Co., which means James Simpson, publish their annual report, showing a surplus of more then $67,000,000.

"Seest thou a man diligent in his business, she shall stand before kings."

In our days "kings" means bank presidents.

The prosperity of one of the greatest concerns in the world also means general prosperity.

The Marshall Field wholesale department reflects general conditions, and they are excellent.

If only Uncle Sam knew enough to mind his own business and let Europeans mind THEIR business.

Illinois discovers that a bill passed, quietly, makes it possible to set free young Leopold or Loeb, or any other criminal, that might have "the price."

Virtue wonders how such a bill could slip through the Illinois legislature.

The non-virtuous wonder how much a law of that kind would be worth in the hands of "practical men."

The League of Nations complains that Turks have been committing massacres along the temporary frontier of Mosul. Northern Mesopotamia (that blessed word) is running with blood spilt by the Turks.

Massacring is something that the Turks understand. If you doubt it, ask the Armenians. The remarkable thing is that there are any Armenians left.

Britain, marvelously patient, eager for the oil underground in Mesopotamia, but realizing that her young men would not be conscripted to fight Turks, is willing to wait and make almost any concession.

They have wise, far-seeing men working for England. Georeg Harvey worries about the future of Britain more than is necessary. He might better worry about this country a little. We could use some British statesmanship here if we could get it naturalized and acclimated.

Boy Is Auto Victim.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 12. — Duttle, 7 years old, of Newport, Ky., died in a hospital of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile driven by W. R. Hobbs, of Silver Grove, Ky.

RUINS OF GREAT ANTIQUITY FOUND ON MARIANA ISLANDS

Discover Traces of Vanished Civilization in Pacific Comparable to That of Ancient Mainland.

New Haven, Conn.—Scientists of the Bishop museum of Honolulu, which is affiliated with Yale university, have discovered ruins of great antiquity on the Mariana islands, between Hawaii and the Philippines, which indicate a vanished civilization in the Pacific comparable to that of the ancient mainland, according to Prof. Herbert E. Gregory of the Yale geology department and director of the Bishop museum, who has just returned from Honolulu.

These ruins are so old that the Chomarros, who have inhabited the islands for upwards of a thousand years, know nothing of them. There are hundreds of tall, gracefully shaped stone columns bearing carved caps, each weighing nearly a ton, and arranged in long colonades and circles. The purpose of the great edifices of which these were a part is so far unknown, nor has it been possible as yet to determine the date of their construction or the race of their builders. A study of the skeletons buried at the base of the columns seems to suggest that people related to the Ainus of northern Japan and to some of the earliest Polynesians were the first inhabitants.

"The origin and migration of the little-known race inhabiting the Pacific island is one of the outstanding problems of present-day science," Professor Gregory said. "By some routes in the distant past primitive peoples in crude canoes left the Asiatic continent, and making their way from island to island, spread an area 8,000 miles long and 6,000 miles wide, reaching even to New Zealand.

"To trace these routes and to find out who these early people were is a problem which the Bishop museum and Yale university are attempting to solve. It was in investigating a probable route from Mongolia through Japan to the Marianas and thence to Samoa and Hawaii that these extraordinarily important ruins were discovered. They will have the greatest significance in determining who the earliest inhabitants of this region were and what stage of culture they had achieved."

12 Hurt When Theatre Roof Collapses During Musical Show

Disaster Averted by Ensemble Manager and Star Who Keep Chorus Girls Singing as Audience Marches Out.

WILMINGTON, Del., Dec. 12. — Twelve members of "The Song of the Flame" musical comedy company, fresh from New York, were today suffering from injuries received when the roof over the stage of the playhouse collapsed with a roar during the second scene of the performance.

Disaster was narrowly averted by the quick wit of Jack Haskel, ensemble manager, who, with Dorothy MacKaye, one of the stars, kept the company singing while the audience marched out quietly.

The injured included:

Mme. Chereko, principal, fractured skull.

Blanche Collins, principal, internal injuries, sustained when she fell from the stage into a cellar.

Norman Stengel, possible fracture of the skull.

Mme. Andrievski, sprained leg and ankle.

Mme. Troitzkaya, sprained hips.

David Eno, sprained leg.

Bob Leroy, injured shoulder.

The accident was caused by an accumulation of water on the stage roof resulting from a broken water main.

Hero-Worshipping Girls Swamp "Red" Grange With Mail

DETROIT, Dec. 12. — "Red" Grange may have been booed by some of the fans who have watched his play but he certainly has lost none of his popularity with the fair sex. The famous redhead gets more mail than a movie queen—and included in the lot are letters from hero-worshipping girls that roll in at the rate of about 150 a day.

Nothing shy about these young women either. They suggest dates and parties. They naively propose marriage and some of them insist that a little loan wouldn't come amiss to tide them over bitter days.

None of these reach "Red's" eyes. They are read by his manager or companion and then consigned to the waste basket.

Announcement of the remarriage dropped like a bombshell in social circles as the news of their divorce in Key West on Nov. 4 was published only two days ago.

Vote Against Probe

Councilman Kerr's Charges

Going to the home which the officers supposed was the one referred to in the search warrant, the leader of the raid is said to have aroused the woman from her bed, demanding that the door be unlocked. The woman, it is declared, at first refused to open the door but unlocked it when she was told it was a policeman.

The patrolman is said to have accused her of "having a still, selling liquor and having men running here," according to the statements made by Kerr.

"When the warrant was read to her the woman told the officers they must be mistaken but this officer was insulting," Kerr declared. "One of the officers pushed her aside and walked through her house to unlock the front door, we were told, and then the search was made.

"The cellar was searched, cupboards opened and examined and almost every room in the house was entered by the raiders while this woman was forced to stand by and look on. Of course, no liquor was found and the police returned to the city hall empty-handed."

Demands That Mayor Act

"Realizing that some one had blundered, the mayor called the three officers before him Monday and also talked with the woman, her attorney and the chief of police. An apology for the raid was made but that does not help much when a person is humiliated like this woman. This incident may mean a law suit and may cost the city some money, and I think that the mayor, an $1,800 per year man, should shoulder the responsibility now. Let him suspend this one officer and get down to the bottom of this thing and not shove it off to the incoming administration.

"If this patrolman is inefficient, he should be removed from the police force. I have been told that this is not the first blunder he has made since he has been on the force. An officer should be courteous and courtesy is something he didn't show in making this raid.

"This woman, who was forced to suffer the humiliation of this raid is one of the most respected residents in East End. She is a widow, her husband having died about two years ago. She is active in church work and has been a temperance worker for many years.

"The home should be respected and protected and not wronged as was done in this case last Saturday night. The least we can do is to demand an investigation—confer with the safety director and the mayor to see what is being done about this matter and do anything that can be done to right this wrong."

FARRALL SUPPORTS KERR

Councilman Farrall, reiterating Kerr's remarks, said "this officer not only had been insulting but also abusive to this innocent woman.

"The mayor told her that the officer would be discharged if she would consent to let the matter drop," Farrall said, "and yet this man is still on the job. He should be removed."

Solon J. Raymond Chambers declared that the name contained in the search warrant was the same as that of another party who lived on the same thoroughfare who long had been suspected of bootlegging and who on one occasion had been convicted of a liquor violation.

"The officers no doubt thought they were searching this woman's house when they went there," he declared. "I have known this woman for a long time and will state that she has always been one of East End's most respectable residents, and I am sorry for this affair."

Chambers Blames Superiors.

"However," Chambers continued, "this officer whom you charge here tonight is not responsible. He was merely carrying out orders from his superiors. A few days before the raid a man had been shot at in this district, and, according to the man whose name was signed to the affidavit, the liquor had been purchased by the gun wielder in that district.

"This warrant was first placed in the hands of the captain of police whose duty it was to go to East End and take part in the raid, or, at least, investigate. But he turned it over to the man on that beat. This man, whom you are condemning, made no search, I am told, it was done by the two assisting him. He might have said something which he shouldn't. People of East End are back of this officer, knowing that he does his duty. The mayor did his duty when he issued the warrant. But the superior officer on duty at that time is to blame."

Chambers declared that only the last name of the party was given on the search warrant and that an initial was inserted in front of the same after the mistake had been made.

News to Hayes.

"This is all news to me" said Councilman Hayes. "But I don't believe that council has any jurisdiction in the matter, but I would not oppose an investigation."

Throughout the discussion, Councilmen Fred Eardley, J. B. Rowe and James Larcombe remained silent.

"It is the duty of any citizen to demand an investigation" declared Kerr "and I ask for the appointment of a committee of three from council to probe this matter." His motion was seconded by Hayes.

Before roll call was taken Chambers asserted the trouble had been adjusted and that further notoriety at this time might have a tendency to start it all over again. This did not forestall a vote, however, but the motion was declared lost, Solons Kerr, Farrall and Hayes voting aye, while Chambers, Larcombe, Rowe and Eardley voted nay.

DEMOLAYS WILL STAGE COMEDY

Rehearsals for "That's That," Dec. 28-29, Under Way.

Rehearsals for the home talent musical comedy, "That's That," which will be offered under the auspices of Harding Chapter, Order of DeMolay, in the high school auditorium, Monday and Tuesday, December 28 and 29, are under way.

The rehearsals are in charge of Larry Knowles, a representative of the John B. Rodgers Producing company, Fostoria. This is the second time this show has been staged by the Fostoria concern, all costumes and scenery being new.

Principals have been assigned and practices are being held in the grill room of the Masonic temple. A cast of 60 is taking part. The next rehearsal will be held at 8 o'clock Monday evening.

City Leases Court

He added that heads of the fire department had informed him that firemen always has purchased their dress caps.

Receive Mayor's Veto

Larcombe said a cap was part of a policeman's paraphernalia and should be furnished by the city. Chambers declared that a cap was not a part of a policeman's clothing. Farrall responded that if the city was going to buy caps for the policemen he would introduce an ordinance to furnish them to the firemen. An effort was made to suspend the rules in order to pass the ordinance on third reading, but this move lacked the necessary three-fourths majority and the measure was held up until the next meeting.

An ordinance, apportioning the service safety director's salary, was passed on three readings under suspension of the rules. This was divided as follows: Water works department, $950; service department, $425; safety department, $425. This measure was declared to be an emergency ordinance, inasmuch as it must be effective on January 1. An ordinance to fix the bond of the service-safety department head was tabled until the next meeting.

Mayor Brown's veto on the salary reducing measure was read. Solon Farrall took exception to the mayor's statement that 98 per cent of the people wanted it left at $1,800.

"I'd like to know where the 98 per cent of the people are unless the mayor counts himself as 90 per cent," said Farrall. "That just his opinion, that's all." The communication was ordered filed with Chambers, Larcombe, Rowe, Eardley, Kerr and Hayes voting yes and Farrall voting nay.

Protest Bus Route Change.

A petition, containing 522 signatures, was received from East End, protesting against the proposed change in the River Road bus route. John Wilson, Mulberry street newsdealer, appeared in behalf of the petitioners.

Solicitor Brokaw asserted that the traction company officials operating the bus along Mulberry street by a franchise and that they could not be compelled to make the loop around Virginia avenue if they did not see fit. Larcombe asserted that a watchman should be stationed at Virginia avenue which would overcome the street car company's objection to crossing the railroad tracks. He said that the company is violating the franchise making the loop.

Council decided that the company should operate the bus to Mulberry street and Pennsylvania avenue as the franchise requires.

TWENTY-TWO.

The only morning the Harwoods breakfasted together was Sunday. On other days, Laurel, thus encouraged by Noble, who liked to give his attention to the morning paper as he consumed his customary fruit and eggs and bacon and toast and coffee, slept late and idled over the orange and toast and cocoa served in the boudoir by Dell.

On this particular Sunday morning, Laurel arose quite early, in accordance with plans she had made with secret joy the evening before. Neither servants nor master usually were astir before 9 o'clock on Sunday, and at 7 o'clock she was free to go where she liked without observation. Clad in a breakfast gown, she ventured into the kitchen and loaded a tea-caddy with an electric toaster, a percolator, an electric grill, slices of bread, a plate of butter, strips of bacon, eggs that threatened momentarily to roll off the plate on which they uncertainly reposed, and seasonings. She fumbled around in Louis' pantry and found everything locked, so that she had to search the kitchen again to locate silver. It was shoddy stuff, evidently used by the servants. Thus loaded, she made her way to the elevator and up to her suite.

By now, she was exuberant with the possibilities of her plan. New inspiration struck her, and she slipped down the stairs, afraid to use the elevator because of the noisy doors, and ventured out into the garden. How lovely everything was, how fresh, how bright, how vivacious! For several minutes she stood transfixed, held by the chirp of the birds, and the beauty of the shimmering pool. Then, fearful of discovery, she hurried to pluck a handful of dew-laden blossoms, and to seek the morning papers at the gate.

Back in her sitting-room, she listened intently at Noble's door, and tiptoed into his bedroom. He lay on the bed with his back to her, the silken covers disturbed rhystmically by his heavy breathing. She stood regarding him for several minutes. How old and worn he looked. The shadows into which the morning sun decomposed in its passage through the heavy hangings, were not kind to him. For a moment she was undecided about going ahead with her plan, then she went over to his desk and penned a note which she returned to affix to the breast of his violet-hued satin pajamas.

Twenty minutes later Noble Harwood was awakened by an incessant low whistle that appeared to issue into his boudoir from his dressing-cabinet. Twice he turned over sleepily to escape it, then he reared up in bed. "Burham! Dammit, are you whistling? Stop it, dammit!" There was silence a moment, then the whistling resumed. "Dammit, do you think you are a bird or something?" Now he was startled by the sound of what appeared to be low laughter. He was in the act of leaping up off the bed when his attention was captured by the note appended to his pajamas:

"You are cordially invited to breakfast in Mrs. Harwood's suite immediately. Wash your face and hands like a nice boy (and don't wet them and wipe off the dirt on the towel) and come right in.'

Yawning and rubbing his hands through his hair, he got up, pulled on a dressing down and slipper, and went into the bathroom. As the water bubbled merrily into the bowl, he gazed at himself in the mirror through sleepy eyes. What the devil! That bald spot was getting bigger! When he had washed, he worked carefully over this spot with the comb for ten minutes. Then, ill satisfied with his effort, he walked slowly to Laurel's door, still yawning.

"Good morning, dear." She ran to kiss him with the eagerness of a child. His eyes peered over her shoulder at her tea-table, snowy with linen and sparkling with polished silver, and his notrils gratefully drank in the aroma of bubbling coffee.

"That's not fair—peeping!" she cried affecting aggrievement.

Noble stifled a yawn, and Laurel gave him a little shake. "The idea! yawning at me!'

He smiled sheepishly, and allowed himself to be led clumsily to a chair at the table. Laurel placed the morning papers in his hands. "Breakfast is served!" With radiant face she watched him for some sign of approval.

"Did you do this?" he said slowly, looking over the table's burden.

Her face fell, but still she smiled. "Of course, dear."

"It's nice,' he said briefly, fumbling in his dressing-gown, then looking around.

"Is there something you want, dear? I'll get it.".

"Err—my glasses." He started to arise.

"I'll get them." She tripped lightly into his room, his eyes following her.

"I don's think I want anything but coffee, dear," he announced when she returned.

Her exuberance faded. "Don't you think you'll like—."

"Oh, they're all right, dear—everything is just marvelous. I'm just not hungry, that't all. Yes, everything looks just fine, and smells so good. Maybe I will have a piece of toast." He reached for the plate.

"No," she said, withdrawing the plate. "Not if you don't want it."

"Dearest! Don't loo' like that." He got up and went to her. "Everything is all right. The flowers are pretty and everything. It was bully of you to do this. I'm just—." He drew himself up, futilely, as she said, "Never mind—it's all right."

Noble went back to his papers, and tried to get interested in them, but could thing of nothing but Laurel sitting there disturbingly quiet.

"Noble," sh said slowly, at last, "I had to bring up kitchen silver because I couldn't get into anything in Louis' pantry. I think I, as mistress of the house, ought to have keys to everything. And I thing it is time I took charge of things—."

"Why—uh," Noble regarded her hesitatingly. "Louis has always attended to things. He knows all about them. He's economical and all that. You don't have to uh—be worried about such things."

"Oh." Her eyes were bearing full upon his. So she was not to have a say about ANYTHING! "I thing it is the duty of a wife to know something about the management of her hushan's house and—."

He was frowning impatiently. "Yes, I understand, dear, but such things are a bother, and you need not feel called upon to see to things. Louis is reliable and all that." He reached over and gave his wife a friendly pat.

Laurel stirred, irritated. Why wouldn't he understand? He was making a plaything of her. She was nothing else to him! A doll! She had no authority in her own house. His children, his servants, had voices, but not she. Her aggravation was increasing, and her nerves were in edge. Tears moistened her eyes. She tried to hide them, but Nobl saw and got up. "Damn! Damn! Damn! Tears! Hell!"

SELLS STOVE SHE USED TO COOK 60,000 MEALS

Widow, After 62 Years, Gives Up Gift From Husband at Time of Wedding.

Quinton, N. J.—The stove that has cooked more than 60,000 meals has turned out its last batch of cookies.

Mrs. Catherine Sheets, believed to hold the world's record for continuous cooking upon the same stove, recently took a last wistful look at the old stove as it was trundled off in a truck. She turned the key in the back kitchen door and brushed away the tears as she left the old house for the last time.

Her husband, Herbert Sheets, for whom she had cooked faithfully during the more than sixty-two years of their married life, died a few weeks ago. Her nourishing food, the doctors said, kept him alive well beyond his allotted time. Her husband "liked her cooking." She needed no further incentive to keep her on her ceaseless round of three meals a day at the shiny little black stove from a spritely slip of a bride until her back became bent from her much stooping over her pots and pans and faithful watch over her oven.

The little cook stove was her husband's wedding gift to her when they started housekeeping in a modest way on Washington's birthday in 1863. It was the only cook stove Mr. and Mrs. Sheets had through their entire married life.

Mrs. Sheets, by her own admission, was never a "fancy cook." She and her stove just turned out "plain, substantial food," with batches of cookies, pies and cakes for the holidays and anniversaries—and in later years when any of their nine children or their eighty-odd grandchildren came home for a visit. Her fame for cooking so many meals on this one stove, however, became countrywide on her sixtieth wedding anniversary.

She kept on cooking for her husband up to the very last. With him gone the old home had to be broken up. The household goods were auctioned off the other day. No one bid on the old stove until finally it was knocked down to a representative of a stove company for $20, and he carried it off as a relic. Then the bowed little cook went out the front gate and boarded a train to join relatives at Arnold, Pa.—the longest distance she had ever been away from her cook stove.

Canaries From Home Habitat Vie for Prizes

New York.—The wild canary is due for its debut before the footlights in New York.

A company of these genuine Canary islanders is coming here to star in the bird chorus managed by the International Roller Canary Breeders' association at their show, December 14-19.

Bird fanciers from all parts of the United States will bring their domesticated songsters to match the tremulous trill of their blue-blooded ancestors. The New York Canary club announces that more than 5,000 canaries will be in competition for prizes.

The wild canary is not more than five and one-half inches in length. Some of its domestic relations measure eight inches. Most of the varieties, of which twenty-seven were recognized as early as the Eighteenth century by French fanciers, differ merely in color and markings of the plumage.

The natural song of the canary is light and clear, and in their native groves, especially during mating season, the birds sometimes sing with such ardor that they burst the delicate vessels of the throat.

One of the most valued varieties has at first black wing and tail feathers, a peculiarity which disappears after the first molting. The less desirable are those on which the plumage is irregularly spotted and speckled.

A native of the Canary islands and Madeira, the canary was first domesticated in Italy in the Sixteenth century. It soon spread over Europe and later to America.

Princeton Students Earn $255,575 Working Way

New York.—The 580 men who are working their way in part or entirely through Princeton university earned last year a total of $255,574.33. These men constitute approximately one-fourth of the student body, and the financial remuneration was obtained in a diversity of ways, varying from scholarship winners to lip-readers and majordomos at club and private dances.

In announcing the above facts, Norvell B. Samuels, director of the bureau of student employment, cited an editorial in the Daily Princetonian, which said:

"When nearly 25 per cent of the Princeton undergraduate body is self-supporting, either wholly or partially, it argues a healthy attitude of mind toward work of all sorts done by men to earn a part of their college expenses.

"The preservation of an entirely democratic atmosphere is of the utmost importance in a community the size of Princeton."

ANCIENT THEATRE IS NEAR COLLAPSE

MOSCOW.—The Theatre of Marcellus, built 1,940 years ago, is in danger of collapsing. Several stones have already dropped from the ancient walls and plans are being made to restore the building.

The theatre was built by the Emperor Augustus and was named in honor of his nephew, Marcellus. It combined the Doric, Ionic and Corinthian styles of architecture and was originally of three stories, the first floor being built below the ground level.

The outer wall of the auditorium was arched and several of these arches have been used for workshops in modern times.

Ducks Travel By Routes.

Wild ducks do not go helter skelter north and south when the seasons change. They travel by well defined air lanes, explaining why, out of 10,000 lakes in Minnesota, for instance, there are about 9,000 where a wild duck is never seen. These lanes in the air are known as duck "passes" and invariably new flocks find them and year in and year out the same course.

CONTROL BOARD SUBMITS REPORT

Figures Show Number of Inmates in Various Institutions.

Inmates of West Virginia's 13 charitable, penal and correctional institutions on October 31 exceeded by 52 the number of students then enrolled at the state's 12 educational institutions, including the Romney school for deaf and blind.

Of the 5,873 enrolled at the penal institutions 4,074 were males and 1,799 females. Among the students there is but little difference in the representation of the sexes, there being 2,942 males and 1,879 females.

The following figures showing enrollment at the various institutions came from the monthly census taken for the board of control:

Q. Please settle argument. Which are the drumsticks, of a fowl, the legs or wings? W. W.

A. The drumsticks is the lower joint of the leg of a dressed fowl.

Q. Should iron supports be used for radio aerials? H. J. A.

A. The Loomis Radio college says that while it is generally believed that iron in the vicinity of an aerial absorbs some of the energy, iron supports are frequently employed for this purpose on account of their mechanical advantages. Observe the latticed steel towers used by all the large broadcasting stations, where receivers are also installed as required by law. The aerial should be well insulated from the iron pole and swung a few feet away from it by a stout rope. The other aerials should run as nearly as possible at right angles to each other. If they are one above the other in the same direction they will rob each other quite noticeably.

Q. Can ashes of burned money be redeemed? A. S.

A. Ashes of burned money can be analyzed and redeemed.

Q. In "The Two Gentlemen of Verona," I find the phrase "To their instruments tune a deploring dump." What does "dump" mean? A. C. S.

A. The term means a mournful piece of music.

Q. Is it correct to say that the sap in a plant goes up in the spring and down in the fall? L. H. T.

A. The old conception was that as soon as the leaves drop from trees, the sap or moisture in a tree went down. This idea is false as all through the winter the roots of the tree are absorbing moisture. The highest sap content is just before the leaves start in the spring. It would be more correct to say that the sap is continually going up in a tree instead of down. The water content of a maple tree in the fall of the year is 27 per cent, in the winter 32 per cent, and just before the leaves appear in the spring 39 per cent.

Q. What is the origin of the word punch as applied to beverages? M. N.

A. The vogue of mixing wine or water, lemon juice, sugar, spice and water was brought to England from India and it seems to be named from the Hindu word punch, meaning five, referring to the usual number of ingredients.

Q. Is coal now being formed beneath the earth's surface? J. F.

A. A fuel technologist says that there is no coal being formed under the earth's surface now and there never was. The coal that is now found under the earth's surface no matter how deep it may be was formed above the surface and later covered up. Coal was formed in ancient peat bogs in the same manner as peat is formed at the present time.

Q. Where was the "Los Angeles" built? P. B.

A. It was built by the Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen, Germany.

Q. What is a stich-down shoe? I. E.

A. A stich-down shoe is one in which the marginal portion of the upper or vamp is turned horizontally outward so that it lies like a flat flange upon the marginal portion of the top surface of the sole, with such flange fastened to the said portion of the sole by means of one or two lines of stitches passing veritally through the different thicknesses of material.

Q. Who played the role of Queen Isabella in the opera "Columbus" by Franchetti, when produced in Geneva in 1892? M. C.

A. Celannese Elvira played the part.

Q. When was it found that iron ships would float as well as wooden ones? C. W. K.

A. It is not recorded who first discovered that an iron vessel would float as easily as a wooden one. It is recorded that an iron boat was built and launched on the River Foss in Yorkshire, England, as early as 1777, but the date of the invention of iron as a recognized material for ship construction is often given as 1818 when the lighter "Vulcan" was built on the Monkland Canal near Glasgow, Scotland.

Q. How long has gold been known in this country? E. P. S.

A. The metal was known to the Indians as early as 1564. Mining was commenced in the Appalachians about 1792 and in California in 1848.

Q. What is expanded metal? N. L.

A. Expanded metal is a material of openwork or net-like appearance, manufactured by taking sheet metal, forming numerous short slits in it parallel with one another, such slits being made in lines which are quite close together and with the slits of one line alternated in position with those of the lines at both sides of it, and then stretching the metal in the plane of the sheet so as to spread the slits into fairly wide openings. An important use thereof is in the walls of buildings as a substitute for laths, for the support of the plastic material of which the walls are composed, it having among its advantages that of being fireproof.

Ex-Michigan University Athlete Takes Charge of High Five

Lorah Drilling Squad For Game With F.&M.

Athletic Director O. V. Boone to Supervise Executive Affairs of School Athletics; Mrs. Hazel Mast is Named Coach for Girls.

UNDER the direction of Coach H. T. Lorah, former University of Michigan athlete, East Liverpool high school cagers last night concluded a week of their first hard practice workouts for their opening game on December 18 with Franklyn & Marchall Academy, of Lancaster, Pa.

Lorah was appointed to take charge of the court squad this week by Superintendent McVay following a conference of faculty members, including Athletic Director O. V. Boone and A. E. Reid, Ex-Bradley Tech performer.

Director Boone will have charge of the executive end of high school athletics, supervising basketball in general and directing the grade school circuit as well.

Coach Lorah left Michigan about five years ago. He completed his schooling there in installments. A year or so after he entered the Wolverine school, the World war started and he joined the service. Afterward he went back to finish up.

After leaving school he coached for approximately four years, having been located at Albion college, in Michigan, before he came to East Liverpool. He is at present instructor of physics and chemistry.

Mrs. Hazel Mast, member of the faculty, will coach the girls' floor squad this season.

Announcement that Grange and his supporting cast would play here was made today. At the same time Manager S. W. Parrat, announced that the contract provided that Grange should rest after his Sunday appearance until his game here, in order to assure Ohio fans that the Wheaton "ghost" will be in top form for the contest.

DELANEY LOSES TO BERLENBACH

Fails to Follow up Advantage in Fourth Round.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—"Be sure you're right and then go ahead,' said some sap who never won a boxing title.

And last night at Madison Square Garden, Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., made absolutely sure that he was right and then went ahead exactly one minute, sixty seconds and the sixtieth part of an hour too late.

He cocked Paul Berlenbach on the chin in the fourth round and sat the latter down. But the latter got up, contrary to their last meeting, and Delaney didn't seem to know what to do about it. He was careful, sane, deliberate and unflurried.

In fact, hew as too careful, too sane too deliberate and two unflurried. While he deliberated, a rather bovine gentleman who had a glazed eye and a pair of very neighborly knees, recovered his sense of proportion, or whatever it was he needed, and simultaneously, the light heavyweight championship of the world elected to ignore Bridgeport and remain in New York.

For, from the sixth round on to the fifteenth, Berlenbach bulled his way to the decision, as he of necessity must. He is less a fighter than a catch-as-can-miss wrestler but he happens to be a champion and two judges and a referee decided that he deserved to retin the honor. He did.

Berlenbach did all the forcing, all the fighting. Delaney all the blocking, side-stepping and countering. In a blow for blow survey, the Bridgeport entry probably outscored Berlenbach. In the round for round returns, he quite decidedly did, by a matter of eight rounds to six with one even.

DENIES TAKING COLUMBIA JOB

Rockne Asserts He'll be Back at Notre Dame Next Year.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 12.—Columbia University's annual announcement of a Rockne contract created little furore here today, although university authorities were a trifle puzzled at its pointedness.

Rev. Mathew Walsh, president of the university, interceded for Rockne at this end by making public a long distance telephone conversation with the coach immediately after publication of Columbia's announcement in a Philadephia paper, where Rockne is visiting.

"There is no truth whatever in the report," Father Walsh quoted Rockne as saying. "I will return to the university next fall and for subsequent falls until my coaching days are over."

Mrs. Rockne, interviewed at the home early today, assured university authorities that Rockne had made no moves to terminate his reign at Notre Dame.

Rockne, on his return to South Bend, will leave soon for a vacation on the Kansas ranch of Jesse Harper, his old coach and father of the Notre Dame system.

LISBON FIVE HERE MONDAY

Dodge Motors to Battle Powers on I. O. O. F. Court.

The city's first semi-pro cage clash of the season will be staged on Monday night when the Power quint is scheduled to take on the fast Dodge Motors of Lisbon on the Odd Fellows court.

The Lisbonites established a fine record last year and are confident they can repeat. The Powers, who won 25 and lost seven last season, have started off on the right foot this year with six consecutive victories.

The locals will have their regular squad on the court, including E Bucher, Mensforth, Ashbaugh, H. Dickey, Cochran, Rockhold, Jester, Stuart, H. Smith and Captain Cunningham.

The Lisbon line-up will find Sexton and Burnip at forwards, Hum at center, and Neigh and Bye at guard, with Stockman, Henderson, Haun and Burnette in reserve.

Two girls' teams will put on the preliminary—the East Liverpool High Selects and the Lisbon High Selects starting at 7 o'clock.

The roster of the Lisbon girls' team includes Young and Morris, at forwards; Mefort and Lawton at centers and Captain Pike and Bennett at guards.

Ohio Quints Welcome Back Veteran Players

Only a Few of Conference Contenders Blessed With Enough of Last Season's Stars to Start Off Strong in Present Campaign

By Stanley D. Koch.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 12.—Never were the veterans of Civil, Spanish-American or World wars given half the enthusiastic reception that is being awarded the veterans of the Ohio Coonference basketball squad. For it is around these old timers that each basketball coach is trying to build a conference winner.

At Denison, five of the letter men are back and the big Red lineup will probably include Retting and Curry, Behan, center, and Captain Jenkins with either Nicholson or Ashbrook at guards.

Four veterans are back at Otterbein, Captain Widdoes, Upson and Stair, forwards; and Carroll, guard. Of the recruits, Barnes, Buell, Van Buren and McMichael look best, with the additional aid of Prosky, a varsity man of two years ago and Snavely, last year's forward who will be in play as soon as his football injuries are healed.

Three vets at Hiram.

Hiram has three old men in Captain Frank Hurd, center, Robert Day, forward, an Myers, a guard. Other promising material includes: Barbe, forward and E. Hurd and Broadkhurst guards. The Cherry and Blue is facing a stiff schedule with an apparent lack of substitutes.

At Ohio Wesleyan, Coach Van Alstyne is building his 1925-6 machine around Captain Bill Turney and Lamme, his two stellar point getters of last year's team. A brace of substitutes from last season add Hill and Harlow to his list and this group with Helwig, Campbell, Berno and Blickle represent the battling bishops' varsity squad. Lamme and Hill at forwards, Turney at center and Campbell and Harlow at guards will probably be the first team.

With nine home games on its schedule, Wooster faces another hard season with more material than for the past several years. Captain Pfeiffer, Dodez, McGlashan, Junkin and Langell are the veterans. Anderson, Hole and McVicker of last year's squad are back and Blough Olson and Jolliff are the best of the new men.

St. Javier in Good Shape.

Three forwards and a trio of guards are the old men back at St. Javier. Reynolds, Bray and Weiner are the first named three with Kelly, Albers and Healey for the returning guards. King, who starred at center last year is probably out for the year due to a broken leg sustained in football. Of the newcomers, McGrath, Williams and Hess at center, Tehan, Cline and Specht for guards and presto, Dawson and Burns, forwards, look best.

A quintet of veterans are on hand at Cincinnati and despite the eligibility rules that barred Captain Klein and Barsdale a week ago, Coach Boyd Chambers anticipates a good season for his Bearcats. Bolton, a sophomore star, will probably be shifted to guard with Valentine, Schmidt and Mehl to take care of the forwards and the center position will be either Maddux or Allen. Other squad men back include Jones, McFarland, Myers and Stroud, with Lockman, Dial and Newmark as the best looking of the recruits.

Oberlin Faces Tough Job.

With only one man of last year's varsity in college, Oberlin is facing a tough job. Captain Leahy, right forward, is the lone survivor and Coach McEachron must pick out his remaining players from Tessenvit, Montie and Heldman of the substitutes, and Fleming, Hosfield, Gleason and MasPhee of the last year freshman squad.

Defeated by Indiana in the non-conference game a few days ago, Miami is getting down to real work for the Ohio schedule. The present lineup inclues Ford, at center; Pilot, last year's captain, and Darling at forwards, Captain Dixon and Taylor at guards. The latter is the only man who hasn't had varsity experience. Coach Tillotson has a raft of capable substitutes in Clinger, center; Ewbanks, Leahy and Bowers, forwards, and Zipfel, Buchanan and Flowers at guards.

The Lowest Priced PEERLESS ever built—$1595

F. O. B. FACTORY

Series 6-80

EVERYONE was amazed when the word was flashed—"A Peerless Sedan for $1595!"

Yet there it is—the 6-80—a real Peerless!

Built in the same factory and by the same quality methods that produced the far costlier Peerless Eight and the powerful Peerless 6-72.

Only mounting production and advanced engineering make such value possible. Value that sets the pace for the world! Value that in a few short weeks has literally swept this new car into tremendous popularity!

A Big Roomy Body!

Picture a sedan with a 116 inch wheelbase, yet possessing a body roomier and more comfortable than that of many larger cars.

Give it speed that's absolutely vibrationless at 50—60—yes, upwards of 70 miles an hour. Speed developed by a motor made unbelievably smooth with a seven-bearing crankshaft and Lanchester dampener.

Imagine it easier to turn, to steer, to park, to handle in traffic than any car you've ever known.

Safer, Easier Driving

Endow it with every improvement that makes for safer, easier, more comfortable driving. Quick-acting, oversize hydraulic 4-wheel brakes. Long, flat springs. 3200 pounds of staunch road weight. Wide, correctly tilted seats. Balloon tires....

There you have the new Peerless 6-80 Sedan. You must see it to realize that an inexpensive car can be so beautiful. You must drive it to know that any car can have so many new advantages. The Peerless dealer is waiting to prove these things to you.

Save now ~ for a Chevrolet

We Pay You 6%

Get ready to drive a new Chevrolet. It's easy to do the Certificate way.

Come in tomorrow and choose the model you prefer. Make the first down payment—say $5—and we issue to you a Chevrolet Purchase Certificate that pays you 6%. Weekly or monthly you keep adding to your Certificate savings. When your payments plus this 6% interest equal the cash delivery payment, you drive the car away and take care of the balance in regular monthly installments on the lowest time payment plan in existence.

All money which you pay on your Certificate is deposited in a trust fund at a bank. In addition to this safeguard for your Certificate payments, both the bank and we ourselves are insured by a strong, well-known insurance company so that absolute protection for your funds is assured.

If you now own a car, we will credit your Certificate with an additional 6% on all service, repairs, and accessories which you buy from us. This is in addition to the 6% interest earned on the money you invest in your Certificate.

Here is the simplest, safest, easiest, thriftiest way to buy a car ever devised. Come in today! Learn how easy it is to own a quality Chevrolet.

Tango Fashionable Dance of Season in British Metropolis

LONDON.—The tango is the fashionable dance of the season. Reason: The Prince of Wales displayed perfect familarity with the four steps of the new French tango at a recent large charity ball.

This government in the next fiscal year will spend $3,494,222,308. What becomes of the one hundred cents in each dollar of government expenditure?

Three and one-third cents represent the regular cost of government. More than 16 cents are spent keeping ready for war—and we are not 1 per cent ready.

Military pensions, life insurance, annuities, etc., take more than 16 cents.

Interest on the public debt takes 22 cents out of every dollar. Paying off the war debt takes 14 cents. You might remember that when you talk about getting this country into the League of Nations, or world court, which would mean more debt and more interest.

A girl with no rouge on her face wins the health prize at Barnard college. Miss Elizabeth Metzger, aged 20, is 5 feet 4½ inches tall, weighs 120 pounds. She wears high heels, but you can't expect everything. No rouge or lip stick ever touches her skin. She gives the pores of her face a chance to breathe and that means health.

Other young women please take notice. A beautiful complexion that can be bought by the ounce shouldn't interest any young man worth marrying.

Sir Oliver Lodge is old, but thinks well. He says evolution and creation are both true and suggests that man,

TWO TRUCKS DESTROYED AS BLAZE RAZES GARAGE WEST OF YELLOW CREEK

Building Owned by Terry Carman, of East Liverpool, is Swept by Flames Early Friday Evening.

OVERHEATED COAL STOVE IS BLAMED

Touring Car, Usually Kept in Building Saved as Employe Drives it to His Home.

Two motor trucks, one of them a five-ton Mack, were completely destroyed when fire razed a garage owned by the Carman Coal company on the Irondale road, about a mile west of the McCullough-Jefferson County Children's Home, Yellow Creek, at 8 o'clock last night. The loss is estimated at $8,000, partially covered by insurance.

Tools and Supplies Destroyed

The fire is believed to have originated from an overheated coal stove. When the garage was locked for the night, the fire in the stove was banked. The blaze was not discovered until it had gained a big headway and it was impossible to remove either of the two machines.

The Mack truck was recently purchased, while the other machine, a Dodge, was also in good condition. The two machines were valued at about $7,000. Another automobile, a touring car, usually kept in the garage during the night, was driven to Irondale by one of the workmen last night.

In the garage at the time of the fire were a quantity of oil, tools, and other supplies and equipment, all being destroyed. No insurance was carried on the building, which is a total loss.

The mine is owned and operated by Terry Carman, who also operates the Carman hotel, Sixth street.

SCHOOL PUPILS REPORT $800.86 SALE OF SEALS

Eleven Buildings Will Receive Awards of $50 Bonds.

BREAK RECORD

Largest Collection is Made by High Students.

Pupils in the public and parochial schools collected $800.86 through the sale of Christmas health seals, according to a report which was submitted today to Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, campaign chairman, by Superintendent of Schools C. S. McVay.

The public schools and the St. Aloysius parochial school sold $50 or more worth of the stamps, which entitles each building to a $50 bond, offered by the local committee. This bond will be displayed in the corridors of the schools.

The sales of health seals this year exceeded that of last year by $236.16. Children, during the 1924 campaign, disposed of $574.70 worth of the penny adhesives. A house-to-house canvass was made by the children this year.

The largest collection was reported by the high school which turned in $106.32. The reports from other buildings was as follows: Dixonville, $3.75; Washington, $50; Grant street, $50; Horace Mann, $51.18; Trentvale, $8.65; Third street, $53.30; McKinley, $60; Pleasant Heights, $13.22; Neville, $19.07; Lincoln, $52; Maplewood, $18; Central, $85; Garfield, $50; Walkers, $2; Sixth street, $91.25; Gardendale, $5.17; West End, $10; Glenmoor, $6.20; Klondyke, $8.75; parochial, $57.

CITY LEASES MARKET STREET BUILDING FOR HOME OF COURT

Council Approves Plan to Rent Thompson Structure.

TWO-YEAR TERM

Necessity of Renting Disgrace to People, Says Farrall.

Legislation, providing for the leasing of the second and third floors of the George C. Thompson building at the northwest corner of Market and Fourth streets, as the home for the new municipal court, to be established here January 1, was unanimously passed on three readings under suspension of the rules by council last night.

Inasmuch as the ordinance must take effect immediately, it contained an emergency clause and becomes a law upon the signature of Mayor Brown, which was affixed today.

The ordinance fixes the rental price at $75 per month for two floors. The lease is for a term of two years, with privilege of renewal for another two years at the same price.

Council rejected a proposal from the owner of the building, presented by Attorney W. B. Hill, representing the bar association, for a five-year lease. Light, heat and water rent must be paid by the city, according to the terms of the agreement.

Debate Over Policemen.

"It is a shame and a disgrace that a city of 25,000 people is forced to rent a building for court purposes," said Solon Farrall. "We have fine theatres, fine churches, fine lodge homes but the people who own these buildings are satisfied with a delapidated building such as we have here for a city hall.

"The city has real estate which is well worth $100,000. Then we have $37,000 in the market house fund. If we could turn this money into one fund we could build a decent municipal building. Let the various civic organizations get in back of a movement for a new city building. I would favor such a step."

An ordinance authorizing the safety director to purchase caps and equipment for members of the police force which was passed on first reading two weeks ago, was adopted on second reading by a vote of 5 to 2, Kerr and Farrall opposing it. Farrall asserted that the city auditor had told him that the state examiner had ruled that the city could not purchase caps.

Records for Bills Of Sale for Autos In County Broken

All records for the recording of bills of sale for automobiles have been shattered this month at Lisbon, due to the new Lipp bill which requires this action in order to obtain a 1926 license.

More than 500 bills were turned in for recording during the first 10 days of December. Automobile license commissioners throughout the county have been instructed to issue no plates to applicants who fail to show a bill of sale and who have not reported their machines for personal property tax.

Girl, 9, Walking In Her Sleep, Is Shot By Father; May Die

Jersey City Man, Mistaking Daughter for Burglar, Fires Into Darkness as he Hears Sound.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Dec. 12.—Nine-year-old Rose Carene, walking in her sleep early today, was shot and seriously wounded by her father, Anthony, who mistook her for a burglar.

Rose is in the City hospital, the roof of her mouth torn away and three teeth missing from her lower jaw. Her condition is critical.

The father was awakened by the sound of the outside door closing as the little girl passed into the outside hall. Thinking a burglar was trying to make an entrance he took a revolver from under his pillow and waited in the darkness for "the burglar" to make another sound.

Rose had in the meantime mounted the stairs to the apartment above occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Sorrentino. Mrs. Sorrentino awakened the child and would have led her into her apartment but Rose shook her head fretfully, saying she was "going back to my bed."

The father, standing in the darkness, heard the door swing open and fired blindly into the dark. Rose crumpled in a heap at his feet.

Police arrested him. He will be arraigned this afternoon.

COLUMBUS MAN DIES AFTER ASSASSIN FRACTURES HIS SKULL WITH AX

Wife, Also Murderously Assaulted as She Lay Sleeping in Home, Believes Slayer Was Negro.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 12.—Death this morning relieved the intense sufferings of Joseph Berry at St. Francis hospital. Berry and his wife, Emma, were murderously assaulted by an unknown assassin who fractured their skulls with an ax as they law sleeping in their home here Friday morning.

Police today are continuing their search for the unidentified murderer.

Mrs. Berry told police the murderer is a Negro about 30 years old. She said he first attacked her husband and then threatened to kill her if she refused to comply with a request he made. She remembered nothin, she said, after she screamed.

Marie, little daughter, of Mrs. and Mrs. Berry, said the assailant was a "white man, tall as the house, with big jaws and a mustache.'

Officers working on the case this morning had been unable to assign any motive for the crime other than that of robbery. They were informed that $50, saved by Berry for Christmas, was missing from a pocket in one of Mrs. Berry's aprons.

ARKANSAS POSSES SCOUR WOODS FOR SLAYER OF MARRIED WOMAN

Lynching Feared as 100 Officers and Citizens Engaged in Man-Hunt for Negro Suspect.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 12.—More than 100 officers and citizens were engaged in a man-hunt here today for a negro who murdered Mrs. Lena Blevins, 28, when the woman resisted the negro's attempt to assault her. Lynching is feared.

According to the story told by Mrs. Blevins before her death, she was passing a clump of bushes, when the negro stepped from cover, leveled a shot gun at her, and ordered her to accompany him into the woods. She screamed, and the negro fired, wounding her so seriously that she died a hours later.

Ex-Congresswoman Wants to "Mother" Former Colleagues

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—"Aunt Alice" Robertson, Oklahoma's former congresswoman, would like to "mother" the sixty-ninth congress.

Back in Washington as a newspaperwoman, Miss Alice announced today she was overjoyed by the greetings giver her on Capitol Hill.

"I'm so glad to be back," said Aunt Alice. "Every one treats me lovely and when I ask the boys for news, they say, 'Give it to them, Miss Alice, tell the truth about them.'

"But I don't want to be critical or say mean things about congressmen. They are only big grown-up boys."

Donahey and Prison Warden Ask Return Of "Big Jim" Morton

COLUMBUS, Dec. 12.—Governor Donahey and P. E. Thomas, warden of the Ohio penitentiary, today sent a joint telegram to Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Tombs, Detroit, suggesting that the trial of James ("Big Jim") Morton, Cleveland bank robber, scheduled to begin at Detroit Monday on the charge of robbing a Detroit bank "proceed in due course." But, if Morton is not convicted, Donahey nad Thomas asked Homs to "hold Morton for Ohio.'

The governor also today delegated full power to Former Common Pleas Judge Odrian Newcomb, Cleveland, to represent the governor in connection with plans for bringing back Morton to the penitentiary here to serve the rest of his sentence imposed as a result of robbing the Cleveland bank.

FAMOUS REDHEAD OUT FOR WEEK

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—"Red" Grange will not appear against the New York Giants here tomorrow.

William Veeck, president of the Chicago Bears, made this announcement today after a telephone conversation with George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears, who are scheduled to play the Detroit Panthers at Detroit today.

Physicians advised Grange to stay out of the game for a week, Veeck said.

Pocketbook is Found.

Police are endeavoring to locate the owner of a woman's pocketbook which was picked up on Market street this morning and turned over to the police. The owner may have the purse by identifying it at city hall.

VOTE, 4 TO 3, AGAINST PROBE OF SEARCH OF WRONG HOUSE

Charge Three Patrolmen Humiliated East End Widow.

URGE SUSPENSION

Smith, Roth and Cline Raiders, City Hall Says.

Charges that three members of the police force had "blundered" in visiting the wrong place, the home of a "respectable East End woman," during a raid last Saturday night, were made last night on the floor of the council chamber by Solons N. P. Kerr and Thomas Farrall, in an effort to bring about an investigation of the incident.

Blame One Patrolman

Suspension of one patrolman, who was "responsible for the mistake" and the "humiliation suffered by the innocent victim, whose home from cellar to attic" is alleged to have been searched by the raiders, pending a councilmanic inquiry, was demanded by both Kerr and Farrall.

Councilman Hayes, while expressing the belief that council had no jurisdiction in the matter, said that he favored an investigation to "get to the bottom of the affair." The four other members, however, opposed the step and the move was lost by a vote of four to three.

Names of the three police officers making the raid and the place alleged to have been visited, were not made public. Councilman Kerr asserted that he and Farrall talked with the woman and, at her request, promised that her name would not be revealed.

The raid, according to records on file at city hall, was made by Patrolman Chester Smith, who was assisted

BIG BUSINESS IS GOING TO SAY "MERRY CHRISTMAS" THIS YEAR WITH DISTRIBUTION OF APPROXIMATELY $250,000,000 TO THEIR EMPLOYEES

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Big business is going to say "merry Christmas" this year with dollars—millions of them.

It's going to be a real "dollar Christmas" with hundreds of firms and corporations.

With business booming on an unprecedented scale throughout the United States, business firms already are beginning to play Santa Claus in a more generous way than ever before in the country's history.

In New York alone business firms will give to their employees, it was estimated today, approximately $75,000,000. That will be about $25,000,000 more than last year.

Elsewhere, throughout the country, correspondingly generous gifts will be made. How much is anybody's estimate — probably $250,000,000.

Big, Fat Bonuses.

Big, fat Christmas bonuses to employes and stockholders are being announced daily, and more of this glad news is coming.

All sorts of cash payments and special dividends are being made public. The extra distributions ordered in the last 10 days will reach well up into the tens of millions.

Wall street, having enjoyed the greatest business year in its history, is planning to make it a very merry Christmas, if money gifts will do it. Brokers never have done such a collosal business as in the last twelve months. There were, for instance, two days in November when more than 3,000,000 shares of stock were dealt in in a single day on the exchange. Nothing like in the number of deals since the days of the Northern Pacific "corner" in 1901. Business is so good that today seats on the New York stock exchange are selling around $150,000 and it is freely predicted they will go up to $200,000. Seats on the New York curb exchange have moved up in price from $9,000 to $35,000 since last spring.

Reward for Wall Street Personnel.

The personnel of Wall street, who have been rushed of late as never before, are going to be rewarded in their Christmas stocking, brokers indicated today to a reporter who made the rounds of "the street."

Banks, motor companies, packing houses, oil corporations and various other and varied industries, here and elsewhere, are going to reward their employes and stockholders, too.

Not since war days has there been a time, as in the case of the last two weeks, when so many distributions, in the form of dividends and special dividends, have been announced. Here are some of them:

The Washington Oil company, one of the Standard oil group, is going to pay a 300 per cent stock dividend.

Mack Trucks, Inc., has ordered a 25 per cent dividend. At present prices this dividend aggregates millions.

The Cerro de Pasco Copper company has declared an extra dividend of $1 a share — a cool million for stockholders.

A fund of $100,000 was appropriated as a Christmas bonus to 1,300 employes.

The New York Title and Mortgage company and the American Trust company announced that the 1,110 employes of the company would receive a profit-shar ing distribution amounting to 28 per cent of their salaries.

The United States Steel corporation, with its 5,000,000 shares, will continue its present habit formed last year of paying 50 cents a share extra quarterly, or not far from $2,500,000.

Household Products, which manufactures Castoria, is making a Christmas gift of 50 cents a share extra, or $600,000.

Wrigley Gum will give an extra half dollar a share, or $900,000.

These are but a comparative few of the announcements of gladsome Yuletide news that are tumbling over each other to give themselves expression. Moreover, many important dividend increases are looked for before the end of the year. The Baltimore and Ohio railroad and the Pennsylvania railroad are expected to order increases shortly and the Southern Railway company has just announced an increase of 5 to 7 per cent, or about $2,400,000.

This government in the next fiscal year will spend $3,494,222,308. What becomes of the one hundred cents in each dollar of government expenditure?

Three and one-third cents represent the regular cost of government. More than 16 cents are spent keeping ready for war—and we are not 1 per cent ready.

Military pensions, life insurance, annuities, etc., take more than 16 cents.

Interest on the public debt takes 22 cents out of every dollar. Paying off the war debt takes 14 cents. You might remember that when you talk about getting this country into the League of Nations, or world court, which would mean more debt and more interest.

A girl with no rouge on her face wins the health prize at Barnard college. Miss Elizabeth Metzger, aged 20, is 5 feet 4½ inches tall, weighs 120 pounds. She wears high heels, but you can't expect everything. No rouge or lip stick ever touches her skin. She gives the pores of her face a chance to breathe and that means health.

Other young women please take notice. A beautiful complexion that can be bought by the ounce shouldn't interest any young man worth marrying.

TWO TRUCKS DESTROYED AS BLAZE RAZES GARAGE WEST OF YELLOW CREEK

Building Owned by Terry Carman, of East Liverpool, is Swept by Flames Early Friday Evening.

OVERHEATED COAL STOVE IS BLAMED

Touring Car, Usually Kept in Building Saved as Employe Drives it to His Home.

Two motor trucks, one of them a five-ton Mack, were completely destroyed when fire razed a garage owned by the Carman Coal company on the Irondale road, about a mile west of the McCullough-Jefferson County Children's Home, Yellow Creek, at 8 o'clock last night. The loss is estimated at $8,000, partially covered by insurance.

Tools and Supplies Destroyed

The fire is believed to have originated from an overheated coal stove. When the garage was locked for the night, the fire in the stove was banked. The blaze was not discovered until it had gained a big headway and it was impossible to remove either of the two machines.

The Mack truck was recently purchased, while the other machine, a Dodge, was also in good condition. The two machines were valued at about $7,000. Another automobile, a touring car, usually kept in the garage during the night, was driven to Irondale by one of the workmen last night.

In the garage at the time of the fire were a quantity of oil, tools, and other supplies and equipment, all being destroyed. No insurance was carried on the building, which is a total loss.

The mine is owned and operated by Terry Carman, who also operates the Carman hotel, Sixth street.

SCHOOL PUPILS REPORT $800.86 SALE OF SEALS

Eleven Buildings Will Receive Awards of $50 Bonds.

BREAK RECORD

Largest Collection is Made by High Students.

Pupils in the public and parochial schools collected $800.86 through the sale of Christmas health seals, according to a report which was submitted today to Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, campaign chairman, by Superintendent of Schools C. S. McVay.

The public schools and the St. Aloysius parochial school sold $50 or more worth of the stamps, which entitles each building to a $50 bond, offered by the local committee. This bond will be displayed in the corridors of the schools.

The sales of health seals this year exceeded that of last year by $286.16. Children, during the 1924 campaign, disposed of $574.70 worth of the penny adhesives. A house-to-house canvass was made by the children this year.

The largest collection was reported by the high school which turned in $106.32. The reports from other buildings was as follows: Dixonville, $3.75; Washington, $50; Grant street, $50; Horace Mann, $51.18; Trentvale, $8.65; Third street, $53.30; McKinley, $60; Pleasant Heights, $13.22; Neville, $19.07; Lincoln, $52; Maplewood, $18; Central, $85; Garfield, $50; Walkers, $2; Sixth street, $91.25; Gardendale, $5.17; West End, $10; Glenmoor, $6.20; Klondyke, $8.75; parochial, $57.

CITY LEASES MARKET STREET BUILDING FOR HOME OF COURT

Council Approves Plan to Rent Thompson Structure.

TWO-YEAR TERM

Necessity of Renting Disgrace to People, Says Farrall.

Legislation, providing for the leasing of the second and third floors of the George C. Thompson building at the northwest corner of Market and Fourth streets, as the home for the new municipal court, to be established here January 1, was unanimously passed on three readings under suspension of the rules by council last night.

Inasmuch as the ordinance must take effect immediately, it contained an emergency clause and becomes a law upon the signature of Mayor Brown, which was affixed today.

The ordinance fixes the rental price at $75 per month for two floors. The lease is for a term of two years, with privilege of renewal for another two years at the same price.

Council rejected a proposal from the owner of the building, presented by Attorney W. B. Hill, representing the bar association, for a five-year lease. Light, heat and water rent must be paid by the city, according to the terms of the agreement.

Debate Over Policemen.

"It is a shame and a disgrace that a city of 25,000 people is forced to rent a building for court purposes," said Solon Farrall. "We have fine theatres, fine churches, fine lodge homes but the people who own these buildings are satisfied with a delapidated building such as we have here for a city hall.

"The city has real estate which is well worth $100,000. Then we have $37,000 in the market house fund. If we could turn this money into one fund we could build a decent municipal building. Let the various civic organizations get in back of a movement for a new city building. I would favor such a step."

An ordinance authorizing the safety director to purchase caps and equipment for members of the police force which was passed on first reading two weeks ago, was adopted on second reading by a vote of 5 to 2, Kerr and Farrall opposing it. Farrall asserted that the city auditor had told him that the state examiner had ruled that the city could not purchase caps.

Records for Bills Of Sale for Autos In County Broken

All records for the recording of bills of sale for automobiles have been shattered this month at Lisbon, due to the new Lipp bill which requires this action in order to obtain a 1926 license.

More than 500 bills were turned in for recording during the first 10 days of December. Automobile license commissioners throughout the county have been instructed to issue no plates to applicants who fail to show a bill of sale and who have not reported their machines for personal property tax.

Girl, 9, Walking In Her Sleep, Is Shot By Father; May Die

Jersey City Man, Mistaking Daughter for Burglar, Fires Into Darkness as he Hears Sound.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Dec. 12.—Nine-year-old Rose Carene, walking in her sleep early today, was shot and seriously wounded by her father, Anthony, who mistook her for a burglar.

Rose is in the City hospital, the roof of her mouth torn away and three teeth missing from her lower jaw. Her condition is critical.

The father was awakened by the sound of the outside door closing as the little girl passed into the outside hall. Thinking a burglar was trying to make an entrance he took a revolver from under his pillow and waited in the darkness for "the burglar" to make another sound.

Rose had in the meantime mounted the stairs to the apartment above occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Sorrentino. Mrs. Sorrentino awakened the child and would have led her into her apartment but Rose shook her head fretfully, saying she was "going back to my bed."

The father, standing in the darkness, heard the door swing open and fired blindly into the dark. Rose crumpled in a heap at his feet.

Police arrested him. He will be arraigned this afternoon.

COLUMBUS MAN DIES AFTER ASSASSIN FRACTURES HIS SKULL WITH AX

Wife, Also Murderously Assaulted as She Lay Sleeping in Home, Believes Slayer Was Negro.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 12.—Death this morning relieved the intense sufferings of Joseph Berry at St. Francis hospital. Berry and his wife, Emma, were murderously assaulted by an unknown assassin who fractured their skulls with an ax as they law sleeping in their home here Friday morning.

Police today are continuing their search for the unidentified murderer.

Mrs. Berry told police the murderer is a Negro about 30 years old. She said he first attacked her husband and then threatened to kill her if she refused to comply with a request he made. She remembered nothin, she said, after she screamed.

Marie, little daughter, of Mrs. and Mrs. Berry, said the assailant was a "white man, tall as the house, with big jaws and a mustache."

Officers working on the case this morning had been unable to assign any motive for the crime other than that of robbery. They were informed that $50, saved by Berry for Christmas, was missing from a pocket in one of Mrs. Berry's aprons.

Lynching Feared as 100 Officers and Citizens Engaged in Man-Hunt for Negro Suspect.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 12.—More than 100 officers and citizens were engaged in a man-hunt here today for a negro who murdered Mrs. Lena Blevins, 28, when the woman resisted the negro's attempt to assault her. Lynching is feared.

According to the story told by Mrs. Blevins before her death, she was passing a clump of bushes, when the negro stepped from cover, leveled a shot gun at her, and ordered her to accompany him into the woods. She screamed, and the negro fired, wounding her so seriously that she died a hours later.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 12.—Governor Donahey and P. E. Thomas, warden of the Ohio penitentiary, today sent a joint telegram to Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Tombs, Detroit, suggesting that the trial of James ("Big Jim") Morton, Cleveland bank robber, scheduled to begin at Detroit Monday on the charge of robbing a Detroit bank "proceed in due course." But, if Morton is not convicted, Donahey nad Thomas asked Homs to "hold Morton for Ohio.'

The governor also today delegated full power to Former Common Pleas Judge Odrian Newcomb, Cleveland, to represent the governor in connection with plans for bringing back Morton to the penitentiary here to serve the rest of his sentence imposed as a result of robbing the Cleveland bank.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—"Aunt Alice" Robertson, Oklahoma's former congresswoman, would like to "mother" the sixty-ninth congress.

Back in Washington as a newspaperwoman, Miss Alice announced today she was overjoyed by the greetings giver her on Capitol Hill.

"I'm so glad to be back," said Aunt Alice. "Every one treats me lovely and when I ask the boys for news, they say, 'Give it to them, Miss Alice, tell the truth about them.'

"But I don't want to be critical or say mean things about congressmen. They are only big grown-up boys."

FAMOUS REDHEAD OUT FOR WEEK

Physicians advised Grange to stay out of the game for a week, Veeck said.

VOTE, 4 TO 3, AGAINST PROBE OF SEARCH OF WRONG HOUSE

Charge Three Patrolmen Humiliated East End Widow.

URGE SUSPENSION

Smith, Roth and Cline Raiders, City Hall Says.

Charges that three members of the police force had "blundered" in visiting the wrong place, the home of a "respectable East End woman," during a raid last Saturday night, were made last night on the floor of the council chamber by Solons N. P. Kerr and Thomas Farrall, in an effort to bring about an investigation of the incident.

Blame One Patrolman

Suspension of one patrolman, who was "responsible for the mistake" and the "humiliation suffered by the innocent victim, whose home from cellar to attic" is alleged to have been searched by the raiders, pending a councilmanic inquiry, was demanded by both Kerr and Farrall.

Councilman Hayes, while expressing the belief that council had no jurisdiction in the matter, said that he favored an investigation to "get to the bottom of the affair." The four other members, however, opposed the step and the move was lost by a vote of four to three.

Names of the three police officers making the raid and the place alleged to have been visited, were not made public. Councilman Kerr asserted that he and Farrall talked with the woman and, at her request, promised that her name would not be revealed.

The raid, according to records on file at city hall, was made by Patrolman Chester Smith, who was assisted

BIG BUSINESS IS GOING TO SAY "MERRY CHRISTMAS" THIS YEAR WITH DISTRIBUTION OF APPROXIMATELY $250,000,000 TO THEIR EMPLOYEES

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Big business is going to say "merry Christmas" this year with dollars—millions of them.

It's going to be a real "dollar Christmas" with hundreds of firms and corporations.

With business booming on an unprecedented scale throughout the United States, business firms already are beginning to play Santa Claus in a more generous way than ever before in the country's history.

In New York alone business firms will give to their employees, it was estimated today, approximately $75,000,000. That will be about $25,000,000 more than last year.

Elsewhere, throughout the country, correspondingly generous gifts will be made. How much is anybody's estimate — probably $250,000,000.

Big, Fat Bonuses.

Big, fat Christmas bonuses to employes and stockholders are being announced daily, and more of this glad news is coming.

All sorts of cash payments and special dividends are being made public. The extra distributions ordered in the last 10 days will reach well up into the tens of millions.

Wall street, having enjoyed the greatest business year in its history, is planning to make it a very merry Christmas, if money gifts will do it. Brokers never have done such a collosal business as in the last twelve months. There were, for instance, two days in November when more than 3,000,000 shares of stock were dealt in in a single day on the exchange. Nothing like in the number of deals since the days of the Northern Pacific "corner" in 1901. Business is so good that today seats on the New York stock exchange are selling around $150,000 and it is freely predicted they will go up to $200,000. Seats on the New York curb exchange have moved up in price from $9,000 to $35,000 since last spring.

Reward for Wall Street Personnel.

The personnel of Wall street, who have been rushed of late as never before, are going to be rewarded in their Christmas stocking, brokers indicated today to a reporter who made the rounds of "the street."

Banks, motor companies, packing houses, oil corporations and various other and varied industries, here and elsewhere, are going to reward their employes and stockholders, too.

Not since war days has there been a time, as in the case of the last two weeks, when so many distributions, in the form of dividends and special dividends, have been announced. Here are some of them:

The Washington Oil company, one of the Standard oil group, is going to pay a 300 per cent stock dividend.

Mack Trucks, Inc., has ordered a 25 per cent dividend. At present prices this dividend aggregates millions.

The Cerro de Pasco Copper company has declared an extra dividend of $1 a share — a cool million for stockholders.

Libby, McNeil & Libby, noted Chicago packers, have declared depression at an end and resumed paying dividends at $3.50 a share. pany declared the regular quar- The Chicago Title and Trust comterly dividend of 4 per cent and an extra 5 per cent cash dividend, payable to stockholders on record December 19. The New York Title and Mortgage company and the American Trust company announced that the 1,110 employes of the company would receive a profit-sharing distribution amounting to 28 per cent of their salaries.

The United States Steel corporation, with its 5,000,000 shares, will continue its present habit formed last year of paying 50 cents a share extra quarterly, or not far from $2,500,000.

Household Products, which manufactures Castoria, is making a Christmas gift of 50 cents a share extra, or $600,000.

Wrigley Gum will give an extra half dollar a share, or $900,000.

These are but a comparative few of the announcements of gladsome Yuletide news that are tumbling over each other to give themselves expression. Moreover, many important dividend increases are looked for before the end of the year. The Baltimore and Ohio railroad and the Pennsylvania railroad are expected to order increases shortly and the Southern Railway company has just announced an increase of 5 to 7 per cent, or about $2,400,000.

THE KINGDOM OF MESSIAH

millions now living will never die

Surely the time when God's will is done on earth as in heaven, is not a period of uneventful bliss and passive inertness, as some people believe.

The kingdom of God, which was foretold by the prophets and for which Jesus taught His disciples to pray, is a new world on earth, bettered by a more nearly perfect man.

And a perfect man possesses ideals and capabilities to be employed in the creation of better conveniences and the exploration of the phenomena of natural forces.

To know of God's plan for the everlasting life of mankind on earth is to lift those depressing feelings that weigh so heavily upon them now.

A Little Word About Going to Church

As Christmas approaches and the gay, joyous season comes upon us, we ought to think of what made it possible.

What meaneth all this exchange of gifts? What Great Personality made it possible?

Think of that FORCE that was set in motion some two thousand years ago in the Bethlehem Manger!

Wide Underground River Discovered in Texas

San Marcos, Texas.—Discovery of what is believed to be an underground river of a width of perhaps one-half mile and of undeterminable depth, has transformed the arid region 15 to 25 miles northeast of here into a veritable paradise of verdure and growing crops within a period of three months.

It was during the height of the recent severe drought that Ben W. Pyland, a farmer, decided to dig a well on his place in a search of water. He was ridiculed for attempting to get water in that locality by digging a well.

Pyland commenced digging and at a depth of 20 feet he struck a cap of limestone. Using his pick vigorously he punctured this covering and there immediately gushed forth a small torrent of water. He enlarged the hole by exploding a charge of dynamite, and the water poured into the well, almost filling it to the top.

Other farmers in the section began digging wells and several of them obtained water in apparently inexhaustible quantities.

"Winds of Chance," With All-star Cast, American Booking

Featuring a cast in proportion and prominence seldom equaled in a single production, the American theatre on Monday will display Frank Lloyd's "Winds of Chance," a First National adaptation of Rex Beach's sensational novel of the same title.

Anna Q. Nilsson, Viola Dana, Ben Lyon, Victor McLaglen, Hobart Bosworth, Dorothy Sebastian, Claude Gillingwater, Philo McCollough, Chas. Crockett, Fred Kohler, John T. Murray and Wade Boteler are among the principal members of the company which has re-eneacted the thrilling struggles and romance of the Alaskan gold rush of 1897 and 1898 which Mr. Beach wove into an absorbing yarn.

"Winds of Chance" is said to represent the most accurate film play of its kind ever attempted, and, produced by the man who made the famous "The Sea Hawk" on the same pretentious scale, the pictorial story of our last frontier, with its wildness, its unique friendships, its quick fortunes and its failures, is reputed to be replete with thrilling incidents, surprises and tense dramatic scenes with unusual heart appeal.

Numerous sourdoughs who participated in the actual rush to Dawson City after the discovery of gold and several of the Arctic's most celebrated gamblers are among the thousands of characters who support the principal members of the cast.

Wig parties, the guests wearing colored head coverings, are popular in England.

Wide Underground River Discovered in Texas

San Marcos, Texas.—Discovery of what is believed to be an underground river of a width of perhaps one-half mile and of undeterminable depth, has transformed the arid region 15 to 25 miles northeast of here into a veritable paradise of verdure and growing crops within a period of three months.

It was during the height of the recent severe drought that Ben W. Pyland, a farmer, decided to dig a well on his place in a search of water. He was ridiculed for attempting to get water in that locality by digging a well.

Pyland commenced digging and at a depth of 20 feet he struck a cap of limestone. Using his pick vigorously he punctured this covering and there immediately gushed forth a small torrent of water. He enlarged the hole by exploding a charge of dynamite, and the water poured into the well, almost filling it to the top.

Other farmers in the section began digging wells and several of them obtained water in apparently inexhaustible quantities.

"Winds of Chance," With All-star Cast, American Booking

Featuring a cast in proportion and prominence seldom equaled in a single production, the American theatre on Monday will display Frank Lloyd's "Winds of Chance," a First National adaptation of Rex Beach's sensational novel of the same title.

Anna Q. Nilsson, Viola Dana, Ben Lyon, Victor McLaglen, Hobart Bosworth, Dorothy Sebastian, Claude Gillingwater, Philo McCollough, Chas. Crockett, Fred Kohler, John T. Murray and Wade Boteler are among the principal members of the company which has re-enacted the thrilling struggles and romance of the Alaskan gold rush of 1897 and 1898 which Mr. Beach wove into an absorbing yarn.

"Winds of Chance" is said to represent the most accurate film play of its kind ever attempted, and, produced by the man who made the famous "The Sea Hawk" on the same pretentious scale, the pictorial story of our last frontier, with its wildness, its unique friendships, its quick fortunes and its failures, is reputed to be replete with thrilling incidents, surprises and tense dramatic scenes with unusual heart appeal.

Numerous sourdoughs who participated in the actual rush to Dawson City after the discovery of gold and several of the Arctic's most celebrated gamblers are among the thousands of characters who support the principal members of the cast.

Wig parties, the guests wearing colored head coverings, are popular in England.

THE KINGDOM OF MESSIAH

millions now living will never die

Surely the time when God's will is done on earth as in heaven, is not a period of uneventful bliss and passive inertness, as some people believe.

The kingdom of God, which was foretold by the prophets and for which Jesus taught His disciples to pray, is a new world on earth, bettered by a more nearly perfect man.

And a perfect man possesses ideals and capabilities to be employed in the creation of better conveniences and the exploration of the phenomena of natural forces.

To know of God's plan for the everlasting life of mankind on earth is to lift those depressing feelings that weigh so heavily upon them now.

A Little Word About Going to Church

As Christmas approaches and the gay, joyous season comes upon us, we ought to think of what made it possible.

What meaneth all this exchange of gifts? What Great Personality made it possible?

Think of that FORCE that was set in motion some two thousand years ago in the Bethlehem Manger!

MINE WORKERS IN BIG DEMAND

An unusually heavy demand for common or unskilled labor during November is noted in the report for that month of C. M. O'Neal, examiner in charge of the federal-state employment office, but it is slackening up now.

Except for slight increases in certain sections the "demand for miners remains about the same as reported for October, says the report, "but there is still a surplus of clerical and professional help, both male and female, such as stenographers, store clerks and bookkeepers. Practically all the calls we are now having for this class of help comes from the mining sections of the state and that demand is for less than the supply.

Calls for common labor are falling off considerably, and Mr. O'Neal expects a surplus of this sort of labor from now until March 1. Not a few common laborers, however, are going to the mines and are placed with experienced miners at loading coal.

MOST BRITONS DISLIKE TALK OF REVOLUTION

Royal Welcome to Wales Exemplifies Real Views.

REDS IN ISLES

Communists Beaten up When Advocate Uprising.

LONDON—It is only here, in the heart of the British empire, that little talk is heard of a revolution in Britain, or of some strange eruption in the state which will place communists in power and attempt to emulate the deeds of Soviet Russia.

Revolution takes a terrible lot of making in Britain. In fact, the average Britisher hates the word. For centuries he has enjoyed all the political liberty he desires and nothing hurts him more than unnecessary disturbance.

Two instances may exemplify the British attitude towards revolution. On October 16 the Prince of Wales returned from a six months' tour of South Africa and South America. This little jaunt cost the country just about $2,500,000. The prince is heir to the British throne. Did the people of Britain resent this expenditure?

Two Million Greet Him.

No! On the other hand, on the day of his return, some two million people stood for hours in pouring rain, just to give him a welcome greeting home. They surged around Buckingham palace and shouted for him until he, with his father, mother, brothers and sisters, came out on the balcony to reciprocate that welcome. The same night the king of England issued a statement, thanking every one for the wonderful reception given to our "dear son" and that message was the sole topic of conversation at the breakfast table in hundreds of thousands of British homes next morning.

Does that look like revolution?

Take the second fact. A year ago a Labor government was in power in Britain. It certainly never showed any revolutionary tactics. Indeed, some of us in close touch with it regarded it retrograde and reactionary. But one thing it did do. At its annual labor conference it expelled Communists from the membership of its party Hardly a revolutionary measure.

At this year's conference, held in September, a great majority refused even to consider the Communists' request for readmission.

Reds Beaten Up.

While the British army maneuvers were in operation a few weeks ago, a number of Communists attempted to distribute revolutionary handbills among the troops engaged. The matter has been hushed up, but a number of them were so badly beaten up by the troops that they had to be sent to the hospital.

Scotland Yard watches Communists closely, especially those suspected of having any connection with, or receiving money from Moscow. The police estimate the total number of Communists in England, Scotland and Wales at about 5,000.

Several other recruits would be needed before a revolution could be staged!

How Much Tax?

While there is so much talk about taxes, it is just as well to get the figures straight. If all of us in the United States, men, women and children, paid taxes equally, we would be paying at the present rate, $70.79 a year. Call it $71.00.

That means about $350 a year for an average family. No wonder we're interested in taxes, whether we pay them directly on income, personal property or real estate, or only indirectly as part of the cost of rent, merchandise and human services.

And where do the taxes go? The biggest item, $33.64, goes to pay the expenses of local government, the improvements, protections and miscellaneous benefits of organized political society visible right around us, in the town and county. The average state takes $9.55. The federal government takes $27.78.

The trend is more important, perhaps, than the present status of these taxes. The federal tax, which a few years ago was the largest, is falling off as the war burdens grow less. It was $48.27 in 1919. The local taxes have increased meanwhile 48 per cent, and the state taxes 75 per cent.

This is not necessarily wrong, unwise or wasteful. Part of the increase comes from the lessened value of the dollar, or higher prices. Part comes from the new standards visible in nearly everything since the war; Americans are demanding more in the way of public service, and getting more.

Rising taxes suggest life, progress, improvement. The community, like the separate families, is living better, and is probably making the money to do it with.

But there is always danger of over-doing, splurging, squandering, in public as in private affairs. It takes a wise public to discriminate between public enterprise and public waste.

Readable Signatures

Fresh effort is being made in Canada to improve the handwriting of school children. The Toronto Globe appears to regard it as futile, however, and cites the fact that vertical letters, backhand and round-hand formations, the forward slant, free forearm movement and numerous other systems have long since been tried in vain. Copy books may be fairly respectable in appearance but almost all other writing remains poor. Business men's signatures frequently are illegible and have to be repeated in typewriting before they can be deciphered.

"We may as well call it a gift, let it go at that—and turn to the typewriter," says the Globe.

Undoubtedly the present-day tendency to hurry through with everything is one cause of poor penmanship. The hand writer doesn't take time to form the letters as neatly as he did in copy book days. Lack of practice, too, has some influence. Letter-writing isn't the leisurely and finished art it is said once to have been. Today we "dash off" a communication to a friend and the result is very far from beautiful, and often very far even from legibility.

Perhaps handwriting is old-fashioned and inefficient and deserves to become a lost art because the typewriter and printing press have made it unnecessary.

But as long as written signatures to documents and communications remain legally important, it does seem as if something might be done to make readable signatures fashionable. About all the average business man writes nowadays is his own name—why not do a better job on that?

World Trade Recovers

The department of commerce finds that the total volume of international trade this year will exceed pre-war trade for the first time since 1914.

Last year showed a notable advance. The aggregate trade of 63 countries representing nine-tenths of the world's trade was $53,000,000,000 against $40,000,000,000 in 1913. The amount this year will be larger.

European trade is still considerably below the pre-war level, with that of the United States and the rest of the world proportionately above. But Europe itself is making hopeful progress. There is a marked improvement found in European conditions, in spite of the demoralization of French finance and the unemployment in England. At last reconstruction begins to seem a reality.

It is a particularly good prospect for America, and largely responsibible for the wave of business optimism sweeping this country lately.

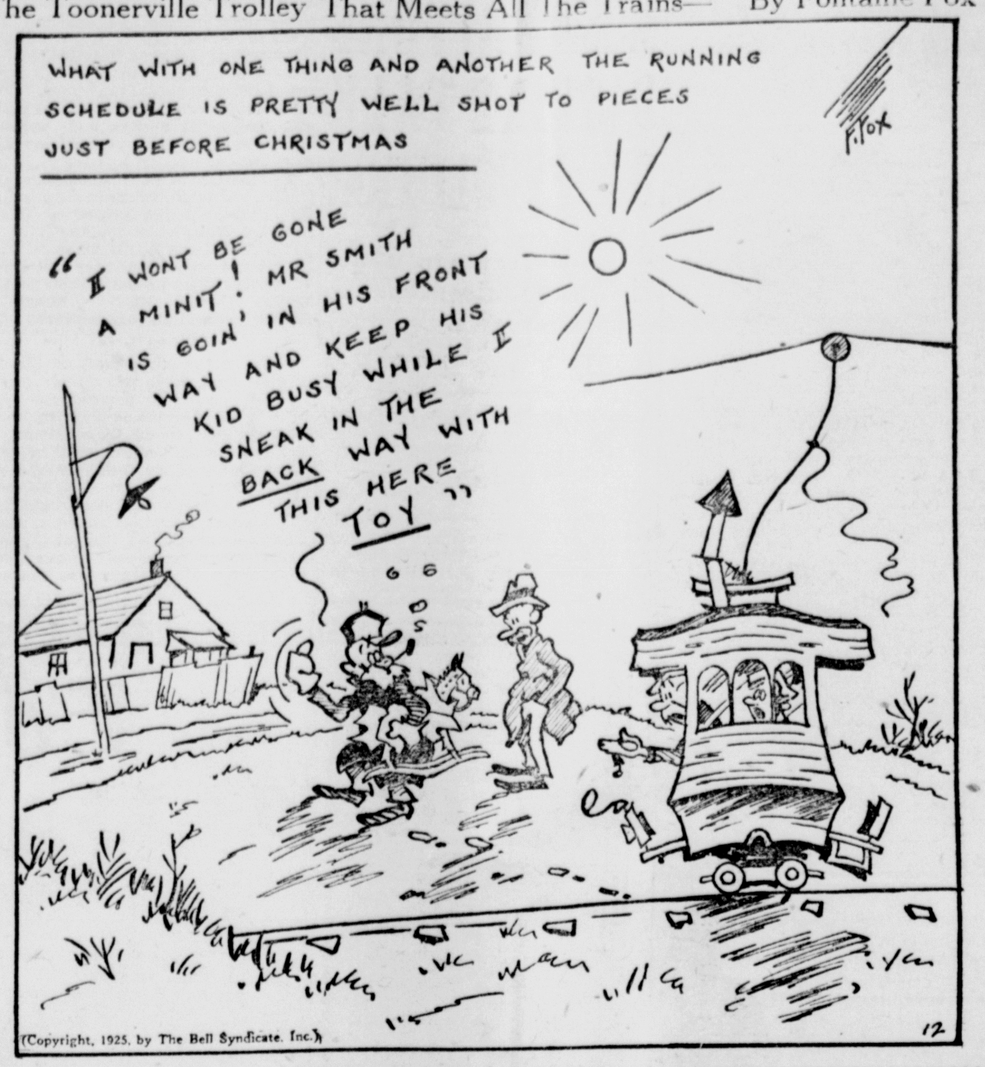

Radio Philanthropy

At last the radio philanthropist has arrived. Other rich men give money to colleges, libraries, museums, charities. William H. Taylor, of New York, chooses to spend his on radio. He has bought a $140,000 broadcasting station known as WHAP, and proposes to operate it at a probable cost of $75,000 a year, purely for the public benefit.

There will be no jazz in the programs, he says, and no advertising, and in the discussion of public questions both sides will be given. Thus three things to which many radio listeners object will be eliminated. It will be an unuusual combination of what might be called pure entertainment and instruction.

It is a fine field for philanthropy, but much will depend on its operation. That calls for unusual judgment as well as money. The experiment will be watched with interest, and may lead to others of the same nature.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—The graveled walk around the reservoir in Central Park at twilight seems far from the city's throb all about it. Arabesque shadows fall from leafless trees. Only the soft slow clump of late riders on the bridle path disturbs a ghostly stillness.

Timid squirrels whisk from tree to tree on the last sly forage of the night. Hundreds who know the haunting melancholy of the metropolitan dusk come there to stroll and perhaps lose themselves in reverie. There are poets, painters and lovers hand in hand.

The obelisk rises in stark, white gracefulness against the velvet plush of sky and is often tipped by a thin wafer of moon. A mounted patrolman, muzzling his mount with his cheek, stands silhouetted under a stone arched bridge.

To the east, Fifth Avenue's necklace of amber lights gives a faint lace-like tracery to the stately mansions of Millionaire's Row. In New York there is always that odd, mystic hiatus—the hour that bridges the end of the workday and the gush of evening pleasures.

Southward, Broadway's nocturnal borealis is tingling the heavens with its incandescence. It is the corybantic splender symbolizing a city's pantheism—the Promethean flame of gay artificiality. (Another big word and you sit in the front row with Percy Hammond).

Where was I? O, yes — don't tell me, I know—the gravel path of the reservoir. It is the only place in the city where motion seems abstract. It is said in later years Carnegie circled the path when he was unskeining his intricate problems.

It is the haunt of Edna Ferber when she is in the throes of fictional outbursts and the serene beauty has inspired Charles Hanson Towne, Berton Braley and also Edna Millay, it is said, to many gorgeous madrigals and sonnets.

A walk around the reservoir at dusk, followed by a meal at one of those dim-lit Russian cafes with wailing, langorous music, and there is nothing left to do but bust right out crying.

There is even a brooding calm about waitresses in Russian safes. They move about in a sad, quiet way, a fitting touch to the shadowy sombre background. Patrons somehow catch the mood and talk in whispers. A hearty laugh seems as out of place as a cowboy whoop in a cathedral. And it has been my experience the gloom doesn't lift with the check. The Russian makes his lugubrious "atmosphere" pay. One has a $6 table de hote dinner. All that distinguishes it from the average table de hote dinner is a Volga boat song on an accordion.

There are daily more than 1,000 traders on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, aside from messengers and reporters. The clatter is bewildering to the stranger. It becomes a ceaseless panorama of a military throng leaping about to cabalistic abbreviation. In a minute a transaction with a customer in San Francsiso is completed over the wire. The floor is littered with a Mardi Gras shower of paper. The faces are mostly harried and pale. Sometimes a ghostly figure rushes outside for air. The annunciators calling brokers to the telephone booths give forth a quacking noise like a thousand ducks frightened into flight. The biggest bedlam is shortly before the gong sounds at 3 o'clock for the closing of another day.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Churches Make War on War.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The National Study Conference on the Churches and World Peace has just been held in this city. An official check-up showed that 1,163 delegates attended these sessions. They came from 30 communions and represented millions of church members. The only large Protestant denomination which did not take part in this conference was the Lutheran.

In addition to the official representatives of the various Protestant bodies, a number of Catholics attended in an unofficial capacity. These included such prominent adherents to this faith as Prof. Richard J. Purcell, of the Catholic University, and the Rev. Philip H. Burkett, of Georgetown University. There were also members of the National Council of Catholic Women at some of the sessions. Although they were not official delegates they were invited to join in the discussions.

The conference was unique in that except for the welcoming address of Bishop William F. McDowell, there were no set speeches. A person having a thought about the question before the meeting simply arose, gave his name and that of the city from which he came and then had his say.

The manner in which the conference was called was also unusual. In May, 1924, the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church issued a call to the churches and the nation to put an end to the menace of war. With characteristic fervor it passed resolutions and took the lead by establishing a commission of 15. Other churches followed suit, and the commissions and committees in turn formed a committee of arrangements for the study conference just held. It was therefore an officially called conference of the churches to study out a common church program for dealing with the question of war.

Dr. Sidney L. Gulick in explaining the conference and its background before it met said: "What do the churches of America as a whole think about war? And about peace? Are they or are they not essentially pacifists? Were another war to come, would they do again what they did in 1917 and 1918? Do they have any distinctive message about war and any distinctive program for establishing permanent peace? As matters now stand, nobody can answer any of these questions, for the simple reason that the churches have never faced them seriously—or together. This is the reason for the National Study Conference on the Churches and World Peace."

First Conference of Its Kind.

The question of a permanent peace and the best way to insure it has been before the individual denominations, but this is the first time they have all got together for the purpose of studying the many perplexing questions arising in this connection.

A 20-page syllabus was prepared and a copy sent to each delegate. It fairly oozed contentious questions such as "Does or does not the church have a duty in regard to the abolition and outlawry of war? Just what was the teaching of Jesus? Was or was He not a pacifist? Is or is not the church interfering with the state in undertaking to deal with these matters? Does or does not a man have the right to refuse obedience to the call of his country?" The delegates were requested to study and decide before coming to the conference which of these questions they wished to discuss.

The expectation that there would be many violent utterances and many extreme points of view expressed was fulfilled. Those in charge of releasing publicity for the conference were so confident that this would be so that in advance of the meeting the daily press was requested when carrying notice of such statements to make it clear that the majority did not concur in these statements—that they were merely the personal views of the individuals. They emphasized the fact that only the final decisions of the entire body, adopted by large majorities, should be regarded as expressing the mind and will of the churches.

The conference was interesting in itself—without regard to the decisions arrived at. The delegates represented viewpoints from the most militaristic to the most extreme pacifist. An impassioned plea against compulsory military training in colleges, elective military training in high schools, the Reserve Officers' Training Corps and the Citizens' Military Training camps, was replied to with an equally ardent plea that the youth of the nation be trained so that in the event of another war they would be prepared. They would not have to go forth with such meager training as was the case in the recent World war. The argument of those denouncing the military training of the youth of the country was that in such training is bred the thought of the militaristic.

What Causes Wars.

After a prolonged discussion as to whether the conference should pass a resolution declaring itself opposed to such military training, a man well known throughout the nation for his fair play in dealing with his employes, arose and said in part: "It seems to me that we are not getting anywhere. We should be studying the cause of war to the end that some means might be devised for doing away with it. Wars do not come out of the mouths of cannon, or off the decks of battleships." To which there was moderate applause, and a continuance of the regular procedure of voting on the resolution.

There was considerable debate over the question of saying the "white" and "yellow" races or the Occidental and Oriental races. Regarding a suggested method of stating a motion, one delegate announced that he agreed with the change except that it did not make grammar. Through all of the discussion, however, no matter how divergent the points of view might be, there was sincerity. Each delegate was striving for what in his own mind he believed to be right.

At the final session the report of the conference was adopted without a dissenting vote. The principal items of this report stated that the church would not sanction war, but that the matter of individual participation in conflicts was a matter of individual judgment. Another important part of the report was the set of recommendations relative to a program of education for world peace. In these stress was laid upon the importance of the individual congregation in the furthering of international good will. It was also decided that a conference shall be called at some later date to report upon the progress made in this connection.

This conference will no doubt cause much debate. There will be those thoroughly out of sympathy with such a meeting. Those, however, who sponsored the movement are sincere in their belief that the mere fact that demonstrations with widely differing ideas of ritual were able to find a common ground for a crusade for a warless world, marks a real contribution to the progress of mankind.

There was considerable debate over the question of saying the "white" and "yellow" races or the Occidental and Oriental races. Regarding a suggested method of stating a motion, one delegate announced that he agreed with the change except that it did not make grammar. Through all of the discussion, however, no matter how divergent the points of view might be, there was sincerity. Each delegate was striving for what in his own mind he believed to be right.

At the final session the report of the conference was adopted without a dissenting vote. The principal items of this report stated that the church would not sanction war, but that the matter of individual participation in conflicts was a matter of individual judgment. Another important part of the report was the set of recommendations relative to a program of education for world peace. In these stress was laid upon the importance of the individual congregation in the furthering of international good will. It was also decided that a conference shall be called at some later date to report upon the progress made in this connection.

This conference will no doubt cause much debate. There will be those thoroughly out of sympathy with such a meeting. Those, however, who sponsored the movement are sincere in their belief that the mere fact that demonstrations with widely differing ideas of ritual were able to find a common ground for a crusade for a warless world, marks a real contribution to the progress of mankind.

TORONTO BOASTS CENSUS OF 6,558

The distinction of being the largest city except Steubenville in Jefferson county is borne by Toronto, which now boasts a population of 6,558 inhabitants, representing a 40 percent increase in the six years since the 1920 federal census.

One direct cause for the gain in Toronto's growth may be attributed to the Follansbee Brothers' mill, which now employes about 1,200 men, none of whom were included in the last government census.

PONZI EXPECTS TO PAY DEBTS IN LAND DEALS

"Get Rich Quick" Wizard Now in Jacksonville.

SEES FORTUNE

Lives in Modest Home; Hopes to Settle Obligation.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Charles Ponzi no longer resides in a mansion.

The "financial wizard" who controlled millions in 1920 today lives in a furnished room on the second floor of a modest frame flat here.

Ponzi does his own cooking and housework, in the hopes, he says, of quickening his plans for amassing another fortune by the nation-wide sale of Florida real estate, repaying his creditors, who lost in his activities in International Reply coupons.

Ponzi estimates that he still owes approximately $4000,000. He has promised a 200 per cent return in about 60 days, either in cash or in land, to investors in the Charpon Land Syndicate, the organizations through which he expects to finance his real estate holdings.

Wears Old Suit.

Ponzi here is clothed in a suit of white knickers made by an exclusive Boston tailor in 1920, during his palmy days.

The suit was preserved carefully by Mrs. Ponzi during the past six years. The financial wizard always is well dressed.

Ponzi now has his office in a basement of West Forsyth street in the heart of Jacksonville's business district. He walks to work each morning to save a dime street car fare.

Ponzi's office is furnished as simply as is his room.

It is in this room that he works out his plans for "rehabilitating himself in the eyes of the American public." For hours at night, he pours over maps of various Florida counties, choosing sites for his subdivisions. He obtained enough money, so his records show, to start his nation-wide campaign from friends and relatives in Boston and elsewhere, who believed in his ability to make good.

Once an Artist.

It is in this flat that Ponzi has done much of the engineering work for his subdivisions. Ponzi is considered a fair artist, for prior to his residence in Boston he was a sign painter for many years.

He practiced his craft in various southern states several years ago, including Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana and Texas.

At one time he was a librarian in a small southern college, and he has had three years' training as a medical student.

Ponzi expects to make millions in Florida after he has paid his creditors. It is his dream, so he says, to make it possible for the man of average means in the north, to possess lots in Florida on which he may build a bungalow at small cost, and spent a certain amount of time each year "in the land of perpetual sunshine."

instead of denying his relationship to the lower animals, including the monkeys, should "work the ape out of his nature."

Man should get rid of the ape that works within him, also of the pig that drives him to vice and gluttony, the tiger that provides ferocity and the heavy-toed sloth that holds us back from work.

Many soldiers lie in graves with no name. What should you write above such graves? The war department has approved this inscription:

Here rests in honored glory an American soldier, known but to God.

That is admirable. But wouldn't you add two or three lines about keeping out of European entanglements to save other young Americans from that kind of unknown glory.

There is glory, undoubtedly, but not much satisfaction in having young Americans shot because Europeans cannot resist the temptation to invade each other's territory and cut each other's throats.

Marshall Field & Co., which means James Simpson, publish their annual report, showing a surplus of more then $67,000,000.

"Seest thou a man diligent in his business, she shall stand before kings."

In our days "kings" means bank presidents.

The prosperity of one of the greatest concerns in the world also means general prosperity.

The Marshall Field wholesale department reflects general conditions, and they are excellent.

If only Uncle Sam knew enough to mind his own business and let Europeans mind THEIR business.

Illinois discovers that a bill passed, quietly, makes it possible to set free young Leopold or Loeb, or any other criminal, that might have "the price."

Virtue wonders how such a bill could slip through the Illinois legislature.

The non-virtuous wonder how much a law of that kind would be worth in the hands of "practical men."

The League of Nations complains that Turks have been committing massacres along the temporary frontier of Mosul. Northern Mesopotamia (that blessed word) is running with blood spilt by the Turks.

Massacring is something that the Turks understand. If you doubt it, ask the Armenians. The remarkable thing is that there are any Armenians left.

Britain, marvelously patient, eager for the oil underground in Mesopotamia, but realizing that her young men would not be conscripted to fight Turks, is willing to wait and make almost any concession.

They have wise, far-seeing men working for England. Georeg Harvey worries about the future of Britain more than is necessary. He might better worry about this country a little. We could use some British statesmanship here if we could get it naturalized and acclimated.

RUINS OF GREAT ANTIQUITY FOUND ON MARIANA ISLANDS

Discover Traces of Vanished Civilization in Pacific Comparable to That of Ancient Mainland.

New Haven, Conn.—Scientists of the Bishop museum of Honolulu, which is affiliated with Yale university, have discovered ruins of great antiquity on the Mariana islands, between Hawaii and the Philippines, which indicate a vanished civilization in the Pacific comparable to that of the ancient maluland, according to Prof. Herbert E. Gregory of the Yale geology department and director of the Bishop museum, who has just returned from Honolulu.

These ruins are so old that the Chamarros, who have inhabited the islands for upwards of a thousand years, know nothing of them. There are hundreds of tall, gracefully shaped stone columns bearing carved caps, each weighing nearly a ton, and arranged in long colonades and circles. The purpose of the great edifices of which these were a part is so far unknown, nor has it been possible as yet to determine the date of their construction or the race of their builders. A study of the skeletons buried at the base of the columns seems to suggest that people related to the Ainus of northern Japan and to some of the earliest Polynesians were the first inhabitants.

"The origin and migration of the little-known race inhabiting the Pacific island is one of the outstanding problems of present-day science," Professor Gregory said. "By some routes in the distant past primitive peoples in crude canoes left the Asiatic continent, and making their way from island to island, spread an area 8,000 miles long and 6,000 miles wide, reaching even to New Zealand.

"To trace these routes and to find out who these early people were is a problem which the Bishop museum and Yale university are attempting to solve. It was in investigating a probable route from Mongolia through Japan to the Marianas and thence to Samoa and Hawaii that these extraordinarily important ruins were discovered. They will have the greatest significance in determining who the earliest inhabitants of this region were and what stage of culture they had achieved."

12 Hurt When Theatre Roof Collapses During Musical Show

Disaster Averted by Ensemble Manager and Star Who Keep Chorus Girls Singing as Audience Marches Out.

WILMINGTON, Del., Dec. 12. — Twelve members of "The Song of the Flame" musical comedy company, fresh from New York, were today suffering from injuries received when the roof over the stage of the playhouse collapsed with a roar during the second scene of the performance.

Disaster was narrowly averted by the quick wit of Jack Haskel, ensemble manager, who, with Dorothy MacKaye, one of the stars, kept the company singing while the audience marched out quietly.

The injured included:

Mme. Chereko, principal, fractured skull.

Blanche Collins, principal, internal injuries, sustained when she fell from the stage into a cellar.

Norman Stengel, possible fracture of the skull.

Mme. Andrievski, sprained leg and ankle.

Mme. Troitzkaya, sprained hips.

David Eno, sprained leg.

Bob Leroy, injured shoulder.

Hero-Worshipping Girls Swamp "Red" Grange With Mail

DETROIT, Dec. 12. — "Red" Grange may have been booed by some of the fans who have watched his play but he certainly has lost none of his popularity with the fair sex. The famous redhead gets more mail than a movie queen—and included in the lot are letters from hero-worshipping girls that roll in at the rate of about 150 a day.

Nothing shy about these young women either. They suggest dates and parties. They naively propose marriage and some of them insist that a little loan wouldn't come amiss to tide them over bitter days.

None of these reach "Red's" eyes. They are read by his manager or companion and then consigned to the waste basket.

Wealthy Realtor And Carnival Queen On Second Honeymoon

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 12.—Having remarried secretly last night, D. P. Davis, multi-millionaire Florida real estate developer, and his 22-year-old "carnival queen" wife, Elizabeth Nelson, today were planning their second honeymoon through the east.

Announcement of the remarriage dropped like a bombshell in social circles as the news of their divorce in Key West on Nov. 4 was published only two days ago.

TWO ARE HURT IN "L" ACCIDENT

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—One passenger and a trainman were injured today in an elevated accident in Queens borough. First reports to police stated two persons had been killed. Ambulances and fire apparatus were dispatched to the accident, the extent of which has not been determined.

Pinchot Sets Date For Electrocution Of 15-year-old Boy

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 12.—William Cavillier, 15-year-old Schuylkill county youth who was convicted for the murder of his aged grandmother, will face the electric chair during the week of Monday, February 1, 1926, unless the State Board of Pardons, before whom an appeal is expected to be filed, commutes his sentence. Governor Pinchot this morning set the week of February 1 as the date of execution.

Vote Against Probe

Councilman Kerr's Charges

Going to the home which the officers supposed was the one referred to in the search warrant, the leader of the raid is said to have aroused the woman from her bed, demanding that the door be unlocked. The woman, it is declared, at first refused to open the door but unlocked it when she was told it was a policeman.

The patrolman is said to have accused her of "having a still, selling liquor and having men running here," according to the statements made by Kerr.

"When the warrant was read to her the woman told the officers they must be mistaken but this officer was insulting," Kerr declared. "One of the officers pushed her aside and walked through her house to unlock the front door, we were told, and then the search was made.

"The cellar was searched, cupboards opened and examined and almost every room in the house was entered by the raiders while this woman was forced to stand by and look on. Of course, no liquor was found and the police returned to the city hall empty-handed."

Demands That Mayor Act

"Realizing that some one had blundered, the mayor called the three officers before him Monday and also talked with the woman, her attorney and the chief of police. An apology for the raid was made but that does not help much when a person is humiliated like this woman. This incident may mean a law suit and may cost the city some money, and I think that the mayor, an $1,800 per year man, should shoulder the responsibility now. Let him suspend this one officer and get down to the bottom of this thing and not shove it off to the incoming administration.

"If this patrolman is inefficient, he should be removed from the police force. I have been told that this is not the first blunder he has made since he has been on the force. An officer should be courteous and courtesy is something he didn't show in making this raid.

"This woman, who was forced to suffer the humiliation of this raid is one of the most respected residents in East End. She is a widow, her husband having died about two years ago. She is active in church work and has been a temperance worker for many years.

"The home should be respected and protected and not wronged as was done in this case last Saturday night. The least we can do is to demand an investigation—confer with the safety director and the mayor to see what is being done about this matter and do anything that can be done to right this wrong."

FARRALL SUPPORTS KERR

Councilman Farrall, reiterating Kerr's remarks, said "this officer not only had been insulting but also abusive to this innocent woman.

"The mayor told her that the officer would be discharged if she would consent to let the matter drop," Farrall said, "and yet this man is still on the job. He should be removed."

Solon J. Raymond Chambers declared that the name contained in the search warrant was the same as that of another party who lived on the same thoroughfare who long had been suspected of bootlegging and who on one occasion had been convicted of a liquor violation.

"The officers no doubt thought they were searching this woman's house when they went there," he declared. "I have known this woman for a long time and will state that she has always been one of East End's most respectable residents, and I am sorry for this affair."

Chambers Blames Superiors.

"However," Chambers continued, "this officer whom you charge here tonight is not responsible. He was merely carrying out orders from his superiors. A few days before the raid a man had been shot at in this district, and, according to the man whose name was signed to the affidavit, the liquor had been purchased by the gun wielder in that district.

"This warrant was first placed in the hands of the captain of police whose duty it was to go to East End and take part in the raid, or, at least, investigate. But he turned it over to the man on that beat. This man, whom you are condemning, made no search, I am told, it was done by the two assisting him. He might have said something which he shouldn't. People of East End are back of this officer, knowing that he does his duty. The mayor did his duty when he issued the warrant. But the superior officer on duty at that time is to blame."

Chambers declared that only the last name of the party was given on the search warrant and that an initial was inserted in front of the same after the mistake had been made.

News to Hayes.

"This is all news to me" said Councilman Hayes. "But I don't believe that council has any jurisdiction in the matter, but I would not oppose an investigation."

Throughout the discussion, Councilmen Fred Eardley, J. B. Rowe and James Larcombe remained silent.

"It is the duty of any citizen to demand an investigation" declared Kerr "and I ask for the appointment of a committee of three from council to probe this matter." His motion was seconded by Hayes.

Before roll call was taken Chambers asserted the trouble had been adjusted and that further notoriety at this time might have a tendency to start it all over again. This did not forestall a vote, however, but the motion was declared lost, Solons Kerr, Farrall and Hayes voting aye, while Chambers, Larcombe, Rowe and Eardley voted nay.

DEMOLAYS WILL STAGE COMEDY

Rehearsals for "That's That," Dec. 28-29, Under Way.

Rehearsals for the home talent musical comedy, "That's That," which will be offered under the auspices of Harding Chapter, Order of DeMolay, in the high school auditorium, Monday and Tuesday, December 28 and 29, are under way.

The rehearsals are in charge of Larry Knowles, a representative of the John B. Rodgers Producing company, Fostoria. This is the second time this show has been staged by the Fostoria concern, all costumes and scenery being new.

Principals have been assigned and practices are being held in the grill room of the Masonic temple. A cast of 60 is taking part. The next rehearsal will be held at 8 o'clock Monday evening.

City Leases Court

He added that heads of the fire department had informed him that firemen always has purchased their dress caps.

Receive Mayor's Veto

Larcombe said a cap was part of a policeman's paraphernalia and should be furnished by the city. Chambers declared that a cap was not a part of a policeman's clothing. Farrall responded that if the city was going to buy caps for the policemen he would introduce an ordinance to furnish them to the firemen. An effort was made to suspend the rules in order to pass the ordinance on third reading, but this move lacked the necessary three-fourths majority and the measure was held up until the next meeting.

An ordinance, apportioning the service safety director's salary, was passed on three readings under suspension of the rules. This was divided as follows: Water works department, $950; service department, $425; safety department, $425. This measure was declared to be an emergency ordinance, inasmuch as it must be effective on January 1. An ordinance to fix the bond of the service-safety department head was tabled until the next meeting.

Mayor Brown's veto on the salary reducing measure was read. Solon Farrall took exception to the mayor's statement that 98 per cent of the people wanted it left at $1,800.

"I'd like to know where the 98 per cent of the people are unless the mayor counts himself as 90 per cent," said Farrall. "That just his opinion, that's all." The communication was ordered filed with Chambers, Larcombe, Rowe, Eardley, Kerr and Hayes voting yes and Farrall voting nay.

Protest Bus Route Change.

A petition, containing 522 signatures, was received from East End, protesting against the proposed change in the River Road bus route. John Wilson, Mulberry street newsdealer, appeared in behalf of the petitioners.

Solicitor Brokaw asserted that the traction company officials operating the bus along Mulberry street by a franchise and that they could not be compelled to make the loop around Virginia avenue if they did not see fit. Larcombe asserted that a watchman should be stationed at Virginia avenue which would overcome the street car company's objection to crossing the railroad tracks. He said that the company is violating the franchise making the loop.

Council decided that the company should operate the bus to Mulberry street and Pennsylvania avenue as the franchise requires.

TODAY

instead of denying his relationship to the lower animals, including the monkeys, should "work the ape out of his nature."

Man should get rid of the ape that works within him, also of the pig that drives him to vice and gluttony, the tiger that provides ferocity and the heavy-toed sloth that holds us back from work.

Many soldiers lie in graves with no name. What should you write above such graves? The war department has approved this inscription:

Here rests in honored glory an American soldier, known but to God.

That is admirable. But wouldn't you add two or three lines about keeping out of European entanglements to save other young Americans from that kind of unknown glory.

There is glory, undoubtedly, but not much satisfaction in having young Americans shot because Europeans cannot resist the temptation to invade each other's territory and cut each other's throats.

Marshall Field & Co., which means James Simpson, publish their annual report, showing a surplus of more then $67,000,000.

"Seest thou a man diligent in his business, she shall stand before kings."

In our days "kings" means bank presidents.

The prosperity of one of the greatest concerns in the world also means general prosperity.

The Marshall Field wholesale department reflects general conditions, and they are excellent.

If only Uncle Sam knew enough to mind his own business and let Europeans mind THEIR business.

Illinois discovers that a bill passed, quietly, makes it possible to set free young Leopold or Loeb, or any other criminal, that might have "the price."

Virtue wonders how such a bill could slip through the Illinois legislature.

The non-virtuous wonder how much a law of that kind would be worth in the hands of "practical men."

The League of Nations complains that Turks have been committing massacres along the temporary frontier of Mosul. Northern Mesopotamia (that blessed word) is running with blood spilt by the Turks.

Massacring is something that the Turks understand. If you doubt it, ask the Armenians. The remarkable thing is that there are any Armenians left.

Britain, marvelously patient, eager for the oil underground in Mesopotamia, but realizing that her young men would not be conscripted to fight Turks, is willing to wait and make almost any concession.

They have wise, far-seeing men working for England. Georeg Harvey worries about the future of Britain more than is necessary. He might better worry about this country a little. We could use some British statesmanship here if we could get it naturalized and acclimated.

Boy Is Auto Victim.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 12. — Duttle, 7 years old, of Newport, Ky., died in a hospital of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile driven by W. R. Hobbs, of Silver Grove, Ky.

RUINS OF GREAT ANTIQUITY FOUND ON MARIANA ISLANDS

Discover Traces of Vanished Civilization in Pacific Comparable to That of Ancient Mainland.

New Haven, Conn.—Scientists of the Bishop museum of Honolulu, which is affiliated with Yale university, have discovered ruins of great antiquity on the Mariana islands, between Hawaii and the Philippines, which indicate a vanished civilization in the Pacific comparable to that of the ancient mainland, according to Prof. Herbert E. Gregory of the Yale geology department and director of the Bishop museum, who has just returned from Honolulu.

These ruins are so old that the Chomarros, who have inhabited the islands for upwards of a thousand years, know nothing of them. There are hundreds of tall, gracefully shaped stone columns bearing carved caps, each weighing nearly a ton, and arranged in long colonades and circles. The purpose of the great edifices of which these were a part is so far unknown, nor has it been possible as yet to determine the date of their construction or the race of their builders. A study of the skeletons buried at the base of the columns seems to suggest that people related to the Ainus of northern Japan and to some of the earliest Polynesians were the first inhabitants.

"The origin and migration of the little-known race inhabiting the Pacific island is one of the outstanding problems of present-day science," Professor Gregory said. "By some routes in the distant past primitive peoples in crude canoes left the Asiatic continent, and making their way from island to island, spread an area 8,000 miles long and 6,000 miles wide, reaching even to New Zealand.

"To trace these routes and to find out who these early people were is a problem which the Bishop museum and Yale university are attempting to solve. It was in investigating a probable route from Mongolia through Japan to the Marianas and thence to Samoa and Hawaii that these extraordinarily important ruins were discovered. They will have the greatest significance in determining who the earliest inhabitants of this region were and what stage of culture they had achieved."

12 Hurt When Theatre Roof Collapses During Musical Show

Disaster Averted by Ensemble Manager and Star Who Keep Chorus Girls Singing as Audience Marches Out.

WILMINGTON, Del., Dec. 12. — Twelve members of "The Song of the Flame" musical comedy company, fresh from New York, were today suffering from injuries received when the roof over the stage of the playhouse collapsed with a roar during the second scene of the performance.

Disaster was narrowly averted by the quick wit of Jack Haskel, ensemble manager, who, with Dorothy MacKaye, one of the stars, kept the company singing while the audience marched out quietly.

The injured included:

Mme. Chereko, principal, fractured skull.

Blanche Collins, principal, internal injuries, sustained when she fell from the stage into a cellar.

Norman Stengel, possible fracture of the skull.

Mme. Andrievski, sprained leg and ankle.

Mme. Troitzkaya, sprained hips.

David Eno, sprained leg.

Bob Leroy, injured shoulder.

Hero-Worshipping Girls Swamp "Red" Grange With Mail

DETROIT, Dec. 12. — "Red" Grange may have been booed by some of the fans who have watched his play but he certainly has lost none of his popularity with the fair sex. The famous redhead gets more mail than a movie queen—and included in the lot are letters from hero-worshipping girls that roll in at the rate of about 150 a day.

Nothing shy about these young women either. They suggest dates and parties. They naively propose marriage and some of them insist that a little loan wouldn't come amiss to tide them over bitter days.

None of these reach "Red's" eyes. They are read by his manager or companion and then consigned to the waste basket.

Wealthy Realtor And Carnival Queen On Second Honeymoon

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 12.—Having remarried secretly last night, D. P. Davis, multi-millionaire Florida real estate developer, and his 22-year-old "carnival queen" wife, Elizabeth Nelson, today were planning their second honeymoon through the east.

Announcement of the remarriage dropped like a bombshell in social circles as the news of their divorce in Key West on Nov. 4 was published only two days ago.

TWO ARE HURT IN "L" ACCIDENT

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—One passenger and a trainman were injured today in an elevated accident in Queens borough. First reports to police stated two persons had been killed. Ambulances and fire apparatus were dispatched to the accident, the extent of which has not been determined.

Governor Pinchot this morning set the week of February 1 as the date of execution.

Vote Against Probe

Councilman Kerr's Charges

Going to the home which the officers supposed was the one referred to in the search warrant, the leader of the raid is said to have aroused the woman from her bed, demanding that the door be unlocked. The woman, it is declared, at first refused to open the door but unlocked it when she was told it was a policeman.

The patrolman is said to have accused her of "having a still, selling liquor and having men running here," according to the statements made by Kerr.

"When the warrant was read to her the woman told the officers they must be mistaken but this officer was insulting," Kerr declared. "One of the officers pushed her aside and walked through her house to unlock the front door, we were told, and then the search was made.

"The cellar was searched, cupboards opened and examined and almost every room in the house was entered by the raiders while this woman was forced to stand by and look on. Of course, no liquor was found and the police returned to the city hall empty-handed."

Demands That Mayor Act

"Realizing that some one had blundered, the mayor called the three officers before him Monday and also talked with the woman, her attorney and the chief of police. An apology for the raid was made but that does not help much when a person is humiliated like this woman. This incident may mean a law suit and may cost the city some money, and I think that the mayor, an $1,800 per year man, should shoulder the responsibility now. Let him suspend this one officer and get down to the bottom of this thing and not shove it off to the incoming administration.

"If this patrolman is inefficient, he should be removed from the police force. I have been told that this is not the first blunder he has made since he has been on the force. An officer should be courteous and courtesy is something he didn't show in making this raid.

"This woman, who was forced to suffer the humiliation of this raid is one of the most respected residents in East End. She is a widow, her husband having died about two years ago. She is active in church work and has been a temperance worker for many years.

"The home should be respected and protected and not wronged as was done in this case last Saturday night. The least we can do is to demand an investigation—confer with the safety director and the mayor to see what is being done about this matter and do anything that can be done to right this wrong."

FARRALL SUPPORTS KERR

Councilman Farrall, reiterating Kerr's remarks, said "this officer not only had been insulting but also abusive to this innocent woman.

"The mayor told her that the officer would be discharged if she would consent to let the matter drop," Farrall said, "and yet this man is still on the job. He should be removed."

Solon J. Raymond Chambers declared that the name contained in the search warrant was the same as that of another party who lived on the same thoroughfare who long had been suspected of bootlegging and who on one occasion had been convicted of a liquor violation.

"The officers no doubt thought they were searching this woman's house when they went there," he declared. "I have known this woman for a long time and will state that she has always been one of East End's most respectable residents, and I am sorry for this affair."

Chambers Blames Superiors.

"However," Chambers continued, "this officer whom you charge here tonight is not responsible. He was merely carrying out orders from his superiors. A few days before the raid a man had been shot at in this district, and, according to the man whose name was signed to the affidavit, the liquor had been purchased by the gun wielder in that district.

"This warrant was first placed in the hands of the captain of police whose duty it was to go to East End and take part in the raid, or, at least, investigate. But he turned it over to the man on that beat. This man, whom you are condemning, made no search, I am told, it was done by the two assisting him. He might have said something which he shouldn't. People of East End are back of this officer, knowing that he does his duty. The mayor did his duty when he issued the warrant. But the superior officer on duty at that time is to blame."

Chambers declared that only the last name of the party was given on the search warrant and that an initial was inserted in front of the same after the mistake had been made.

News to Hayes.

"This is all news to me" said Councilman Hayes. "But I don't believe that council has any jurisdiction in the matter, but I would not oppose an investigation."

Throughout the discussion, Councilmen Fred Eardley, J. B. Rowe and James Larcombe remained silent.

"It is the duty of any citizen to demand an investigation" declared Kerr "and I ask for the appointment of a committee of three from council to probe this matter." His motion was seconded by Hayes.

Before roll call was taken Chambers asserted the trouble had been adjusted and that further notoriety at this time might have a tendency to start it all over again. This did not forestall a vote, however, but the motion was declared lost, Solons Kerr, Farrall and Hayes voting aye, while Chambers, Larcombe, Rowe and Eardley voted nay.

DEMOLAYS WILL STAGE COMEDY

Rehearsals for "That's That," Dec. 28-29, Under Way.

Rehearsals for the home talent musical comedy, "That's That," which will be offered under the auspices of Harding Chapter, Order of DeMolay, in the high school auditorium, Monday and Tuesday, December 28 and 29, are under way.

The rehearsals are in charge of Larry Knowles, a representative of the John B. Rodgers Producing company, Fostoria. This is the second time this show has been staged by the Fostoria concern, all costumes and scenery being new.

Principals have been assigned and practices are being held in the grill room of the Masonic temple. A cast of 60 is taking part. The next rehearsal will be held at 8 o'clock Monday evening.

City Leases Court

He added that heads of the fire department had informed him that firemen always has purchased their dress caps.

Receive Mayor's Veto

Larcombe said a cap was part of a policeman's paraphernalia and should be furnished by the city. Chambers declared that a cap was not a part of a policeman's clothing. Farrall responded that if the city was going to buy caps for the policemen he would introduce an ordinance to furnish them to the firemen. An effort was made to suspend the rules in order to pass the ordinance on third reading, but this move lacked the necessary three-fourths majority and the measure was held up until the next meeting.

An ordinance, apportioning the service safety director's salary, was passed on three readings under suspension of the rules. This was divided as follows: Water works department, $950; service department, $425; safety department, $425. This measure was declared to be an emergency ordinance, inasmuch as it must be effective on January 1. An ordinance to fix the bond of the service-safety department head was tabled until the next meeting.

Mayor Brown's veto on the salary reducing measure was read. Solon Farrall took exception to the mayor's statement that 98 per cent of the people wanted it left at $1,800.

"I'd like to know where the 98 per cent of the people are unless the mayor counts himself as 90 per cent," said Farrall. "That just his opinion, that's all." The communication was ordered filed with Chambers, Larcombe, Rowe, Eardley, Kerr and Hayes voting yes and Farrall voting nay.

Protest Bus Route Change.

A petition, containing 522 signatures, was received from East End, protesting against the proposed change in the River Road bus route. John Wilson, Mulberry street newsdealer, appeared in behalf of the petitioners.

Solicitor Brokaw asserted that the traction company officials operating the bus along Mulberry street by a franchise and that they could not be compelled to make the loop around Virginia avenue if they did not see fit. Larcombe asserted that a watchman should be stationed at Virginia avenue which would overcome the street car company's objection to crossing the railroad tracks. He said that the company is violating the franchise making the loop.

Council decided that the company should operate the bus to Mulberry street and Pennsylvania avenue as the franchise requires.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY

By EDGAR POE NORRIS

© CENTRAL FOREIGN AGCY

TWENTY-TWO.

The only morning the Harwoods breakfasted together was Sunday. On other days, Laurel, thus encouraged by Noble, who liked to give his attention to the morning paper as he consumed his customary fruit and eggs and bacon and toast and coffee, slept late and idled over the orange and toast and cocoa served in the boudoir by Dell.

On this particular Sunday morning, Laurel arose quite early, in accordance with plans she had made with secret joy the evening before. Neither servants nor master usually were astir before 9 o'clock on Sunday, and at 7 o'clock she was free to go where she liked without observation. Clad in a breakfast gown, she ventured into the kitchen and loaded a tea-caddy with an electric toaster, a percolator, an electric grill, slices of bread, a plate of butter, strips of bacon, eggs that threatened momentarily to roll off the plate on which they uncertainly reposed, and seasonings. She fumbled around in Louis' pantry and found everything locked, so that she had to search the kitchen again to locate silver. It was shoddy stuff, evidently used by the servants. Thus loaded, she made her way to the elevator and up to her suite.

By now, she was exuberant with the possibilities of her plan. New inspiration struck her, and she slipped down the stairs, afraid to use the elevator because of the nosy doors, and ventured out into the garden. How lovely everything was, how fresh, how bright, how vivacious! For several minutes she stood transfixed, held by the chirp of the birds, and the beauty of the shimmering pool. Then, fearful of discovery, she hurried to pluck a handful of dew-laden blossoms, and to seek the morning papers at the gate.

Back in her sitting-room, she listened intently at Noble's door, and tiptoed into his bedroom. He lay on the bed with his back to her, the silken covers disturbed rhystmically by his heavy breathing. She stood regarding him for several minutes. How old and worn he looked. The shadows into which the morning sun decomposed in its passage through the heavy hangings, were not kind to him. For a moment she was undecided about going ahead with her plan, then she went over to his desk and penned a note which she returned to affix to the breast of his violet-hued satin pajamas.

Twenty minutes later Noble Harwood was awakened by an incessant low whistle that appeared to issue into his boudoir from his dressing-cabinet. Twice he turned over sleepily to escape it, then he reared up in bed: "Burham! Dammit, are you whistling? Stop it, dammit!" There was silence a moment, then the whistling resumed. "Dammit, do you think you are a bird or something?" Now he was startled by the sound of what appeared to be low laughter. He was in the act of leaping up off the bed when his attention was captured by the note appended to his pajamas:

"You are cordially invited to breakfast in Mrs. Harwood's suite immediately. Wash your face and hands like a nice boy (and don't wet them and wipe off the dirt on the towel) and come right in.'

Yawning and rubbing his hands through his hair, he got up, pulled on a dressing down and slipper, and went into the bathroom. As the water bubbled merrily into the bowl, he gazed at himself in the mirror through sleepy eyes. What the devil! That bald spot was getting bigger! When he had washed, he worked carefully over this spot with the comb for ten minutes. Then, ill satisfied with his effort, he walked slowly to Laurel's door, still yawning.

"Good morning, dear.' She ran to kiss him with the eagerness of a child. His eyes peered over her shoulder at her tea-table, snowy with linen and sparkling with polished silver, and his notrils gratefully drank in the aroma of bubbling coffee.

"That's not fair—peeping!" she cried affecting aggrievement.

Noble stifled a yawn, and Laurel gave him a little shake. "The idea! yawning at me!'

He smiled sheepishly, and allowed himself to be led clumsily to a chair at the table. Laurel placed the morning papers in his hands. "Breakfast is served!" With radiant face she watched him for some sign of approval.

"Did you do this?" he said slowly, looking over the table's burden.

Her face fell, but still she smiled. "Of course, dear."

"It's nice,' he said briefly, fumbling in his dressing-gown, then looking around.

"Is there something you want, dear? I'll get it.".

"Err—my glasses." He started to arise.

"I'll get them." She tripped lightly into his room, his eyes following her.

"I don's think I want anything but coffee, dear," he announced when she returned.

Her exuberance faded. "Don't you think you'll like—."

"Oh, they're all right, dear—everything is just marvelous. I'm just not hungry, that't all. Yes, everything looks just fine, and smells so good. Maybe I will have a piece of toast." He reached for the plate.

"No," she said, withdrawing the plate. "Not if you don't want it."

"Dearest! Don't loo's like that." He got up and went to her. "Everything is all right. The flowers are pretty and everything. It was bully of you to do this. I'm just—." He drew himself up, futilely, as she said, "Never mind—it's all right."

Noble went back to his papers, and tried to get interested in them, but could thing of nothing but Laurel sitting there disturbingly quiet.

"Noble," sh said slowly, at last, "I had to bring up kitchen silver because I couldn't get into anything in Louis' pantry. I think I, as mistress of the house, ought to have keys to everything. And I thing it is time I took charge of things—."

"Why—uh," Noble regarded her hesitatingly. "Louis has always attended to things. He knows all about them. He's economical and all that. You don't have to uh—be worried about such things."

"Oh." Her eyes were bearing full upon his. So she was not to have a say about ANYTHING! "I thing it is the duty of a wife to know something about the management of her husban's house and—."

He was frowning impatiently. "Yes, I understand, dear, but such things are a bother, and you need not feel called upon to see to things. Louis is reliable and all that." He reached over and gave his wife a friendly pat.

Laurel stirred, irritated. Why wouldn't he understand? He was making a plaything of her. She was nothing else to him! A doll! She had no authority in her own house. His children, his servants, had voices, but not she. Her aggravation was increasing, and her nerves were in edge. Tears moistened her eyes. She tried to hide them, but Nobl saw and got up. "Damn! Damn! Damn! Tears! Hell!"

Widow, After 62 Years, Gives Up Gift From Husband at Time of Wedding.

Quinton, N. J.—The stove that has cooked more than 60,000 meals has turned out its last batch of cookies.

Mrs. Catherine Sheets, believed to hold the world's record for continuous cooking upon the same stove, recently took a last wistful look at the old stove as it was trundled off in a truck. She turned the key in the back kitchen door and brushed away the tears as she left the old house for the last time.

Her husband, Herbert Sheets, for whom she had cooked faithfully during the more than sixty-two years of their married life, died a few weeks ago. Her nourishing food, the doctors said, kept him alive well beyond his allotted time. Her husband "liked her cooking." She needed no further incentive to keep her on her ceaseless round of three meals a day at the shiny little black stove from a spritely slip of a bride until her back became bent from her much stooping over her pots and pans and faithful watch over her oven.

The little cook stove was her husband's wedding gift to her when they started housekeeping in a modest way on Washington's birthday in 1863. It was the only cook stove Mr. and Mrs. Sheets had through their entire married life.

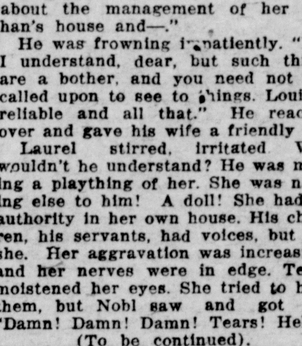

Mrs. Sheets, by her own admission, was never a "fancy cook." She and her stove just turned out "plain, substantial food," with batches of cookies, pies and cakes for the holidays and anniversaries—and in later years when any of their nine children or their eighty-odd grandchildren came home for a visit. Her fame for cooking so many meals on this one stove, however, became countrywide on her sixtieth wedding anniversary.

She kept on cooking for her husband up to the very last. With him gone the old home had to be broken up. The household goods were auctioned off the other day. No one bid on the old stove until finally it was knocked down to a representative of a stove company for $20, and he carried it off as a relic. Then the bowed little cook went out the front gate and boarded a train to join relatives at Arnold, Pa.—the longest distance she had ever been away from her cook stove.

Sneeze Brings Big Relief.

Harry Hutchinson of Philadelphia, Pa., was hit on the nose by a steel drill twelve years ago during a fight. The wound healed in good time without giving him any alarm. After several years he began to suffer head pains and nearly lost the sight of one eye. Recently, while being massaged by his barber, a fit of sneezing overtook him, and one violent sneeze jarred loose a bit of steel from the drill that had been impedded the twelve years in his nose. Within a short time his sight became better and he was relieved of all pains in his head.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY

By Eugene Pope Norris

© CENTRAL PRESS ASSN

TWENTY-TWO.

The only morning the Harwoods breakfasted together was Sunday. On other days, Laurel, thus encouraged by Noble, who liked to give his attention to the morning paper as he consumed his customary fruit and eggs and bacon and toast and coffee, slept late and idled over the orange and toast and cocoa served in the boudoir by Dell.

On this particular Sunday morning, Laurel arose quite early, in accordance with plans she had made with secret joy the evening before. Neither servants nor master usually were astir before 9 o'clock on Sunday, and at 7 o'clock she was free to go where she liked without observation. Clad in a breakfast gown, she ventured into the kitchen and loaded a tea-caddy with an electric toaster, a percolator, an electric grill, slices of bread, a plate of butter, strips of bacon, eggs that threatened momentarily to roll off the plate on which they uncertainly reposed, and seasonings. She fumbled around in Louis' pantry and found everything locked, so that she had to search the kitchen again to locate silver. It was shoddy stuff, evidently used by the servants. Thus loaded, she made her way to the elevator and up to her suite.

By now, she was exuberant with the possibilities of her plan. New inspiration struck her, and she slipped down the stairs, afraid to use the elevator because of the nosy doors, and ventured out into the garden. How lovely everything was, how fresh, how bright, how vivacious! For several minutes she stood transfixed, held by the chirp of the birds, and the beauty of the shimmering pool. Then, fearful of discovery, she hurried to pluck a handful of dew-laden blossoms, and to seek the morning papers at the gate.

Back in her sitting-room, she listened intently at Noble's door, and tiptoed into his bedroom. He lay on the bed with his back to her, the silken covers disturbed rhystmically by his heavy breathing. She stood regarding him for several minutes. How old and worn he looked. The shadows into which the morning sun decomposed in its passage through the heavy hangings, were not kind to him. For a moment she was undecided about going ahead with her plan, then she went over to his desk and penned a note which she returned to affix to the breast of his violet-hued satin pajamas.

Twenty minutes later Noble Harwood was awakened by an incessant low whistle that appeared to issue into his boudoir from his dressing-cabinet. Twice he turned over sleepily to escape it, then he reared up in bed. "Burham! Dammit, are you whistling? Stop it, dammit!" There was silence a moment, then the whistling resumed. "Dammit, do you think you are a bird or something?" Now he was startled by the sound of what appeared to be low laughter. He was in the act of leaping up off the bed when his attention was captured by the note appended to his pajamas:

"You are cordially invited to breakfast in Mrs. Harwood's suite immediately. Wash your face and hands like a nice boy (and don't wet them and wipe off the dirt on the towel) and come right in.'

Yawning and rubbing his hands through his hair, he got up, pulled on a dressing down and slipper, and went into the bathroom. As the water bubbled merrily into the bowl, he gazed at himself in the mirror through sleepy eyes. What the devil! That bald spot was getting bigger! When he had washed, he worked carefully over this spot with the comb for ten minutes. Then, ill satisfied with his effort, he walked slowly to Laurel's door, still yawning.

"Good morning, dear.' She ran to kiss him with the eagerness of a child. His eyes peered over her shoulder at her tea-table, snowy with linen and sparkling with polished silver, and his notrils gratefully drank in the aroma of bubbling coffee.

"That's not fair—peeping!" she cried, affecting aggrievement.

Noble stifled a yawn, and Laurel gave him a little shake. "The idea! yawning at me!'

He smiled sheepishly, and allowed himself to be led clumsily to a chair at the table. Laurel placed the morning papers in his hands. "Breakfast is served!" With radiant face she watched him for some sign of approval.

"Did you do this?" he said slowly, looking over the table's burden.

Her face fell, but still she smiled. "Of course, dear."

"It's nice,' he said briefly, fumbling in his dressing-gown, then looking around.

"Is there something you want, dear? I'll get it.".

"Err—my glasses." He started to arise.

"I'll get them." She tripped lightly into his room, his eyes following her.

"I don's think I want anything but coffee, dear," he announced when she returned.

Her exuberance faded. "Don't you think you'll like—."

"Oh, they're all right, dear—everything is just marvelous. I'm just not hungry, that't all. Yes, everything looks just fine, and smells so good. Maybe I will have a piece of toast." He reached for the plate.

"No," she said, withdrawing the plate. "Not if you don't want it."

"Dearest! Don't look like that." He got up and went to her. "Everything is all right. The flowers are pretty and everything. It was bully of you to do this. I'm just—." He drew himself up, futilely, as she said, "Never mind—it's all right."

Noble went back to his papers, and tried to get interested in them, but could thing of nothing but Laurel sitting there disturbingly quiet.

"Noble," sh said slowly, at last. "I had to bring up kitchen silver because I couldn't get into anything in Louis' pantry. I think I, as mistress of the house, ought to have keys to everything. And I thing it is time I took charge of things—."

"Why—uh," Noble regarded her hesitatingly. "Louis has always attended to things. He knows all about them. He's economical and all that. You don't have to uh—be worried about such things."

"Oh." Her eyes were bearing full upon his. So she was not to have a say about ANYTHING! "I thing it is the duty of a wife to know something about the management of her husban's house and—."

He was frowning impatiently. "Yes, I understand, dear, but such things are a bother, and you need not feel called upon to see to things. Louis is reliable and all that." He reached over and gave his wife a friendly pat.

Laurel stirred, irritated. Why wouldn't he understand? He was making a plaything of her. She was nothing else to him! A doll! She had no authority in her own house. His children, his servants, had voices, but not she. Her aggravation was increasing, and her nerves were in edge. Tears moistened her eyes. She tried to hide them, but Nobl saw and got up. "Damn! Damn! Damn! Tears! Hell!"

Canaries From Home Habitat Vie for Prizes

New York.—The wild canary is due for its debut before the footlights in New York.

A company of these genuine Canary islanders is coming here to star in the bird chorus managed by the International Roller Canary Breeders' association at their show, December 14-19.

Bird fanciers from all parts of the United States will bring their domesticated songsters to match the tremulous trill of their blue-blooded ancestors. The New York Canary club announces that more than 5,000 canaries will be in competition for prizes.

The wild canary is not more than five and one-half inches in length. Some of its domestic relations measure eight inches. Most of the varieties, of which twenty-seven were recognized as early as the Eighteenth century by French fanciers, differ merely in color and markings of the plumage.

The natural song of the canary is light and clear, and in their native groves, especially during mating season, the birds sometimes sing with such ardor that they burst the delicate vessels of the throat.

One of the most valued varieties has at first black wing and tail feathers, a peculiarity which disappears after the first molting. The less desirable are those on which the plumage is irregularly spotted and speckled.

A native of the Canary islands and Madeira, the canary was first domesticated in Italy in the Sixteenth century. It soon spread over Europe and later to America.

Princeton Students Earn $255,575 Working Way

New York.—The 530 men who are working their way in part or entirely through Princeton university earned last year a total of $255,574.33. These men constitute approximately one-fourth of the student body, and the financial remuneration was obtained in a diversity of ways, varying from scholarship winners to lip-readers and majordomos at club and private dances.

In announcing the above facts, Norvell B. Samuels, director of the bureau of student employment, cited an editorial in the Daily Princetonian, which said:

"When nearly 25 per cent of the Princeton undergraduate body is self-supporting, either wholly or partially, it argues a healthy attitude of mind toward work of all sorts done by men to earn a part of their college expenses.

"The preservation of an entirely democratic atmosphere is of the utmost importance in a community the size of Princeton."

ANCIENT THEATRE IS NEAR COLLAPSE

MOSCOW.—The Theatre of Marcellus, built 1,940 years ago, is in danger of collapsing. Several stones have already dropped from the ancient walls and plans are being made to restore the building.

The theatre was built by the Emperor Augustus and was named in honor of his nephew, Marcellus. It combined the Doric, Ionic and Corinthian styles of architecture and was originally of three stories, the first floor being built below the ground level.

The outer wall of the auditorium was arched and several of these arches have been used for workshops in modern times.

Ducks Travel By Routes.

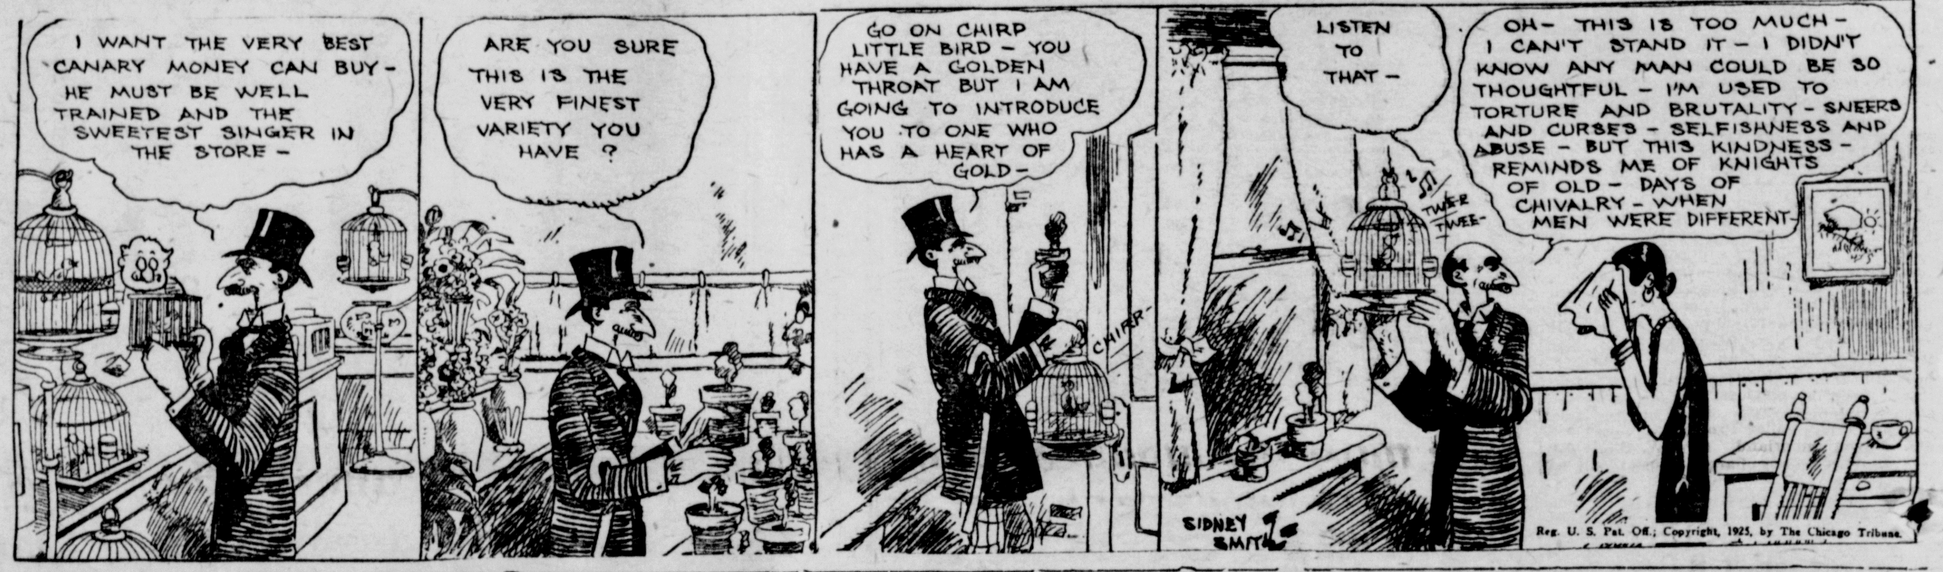

Wild ducks do not go helter skelter north and south when the seasons change. They travel by well defined air lanes, explaining why, out of 10,000 lakes in Minnesota, for instance, there are about 9,000 where a wild duck is never seen. These lanes in the air are known as duck "passes" and invariably new flocks find them and year in and year out the same course.

Canaries From Home Habitat Vie for Prizes

New York.—The wild canary is due for its debut before the footlights in New York.

A company of these genuine Canary islanders is coming here to star in the bird chorus managed by the International Roller Canary Breeders' association at their show, December 14-19.

Bird fanciers from all parts of the United States will bring their domesticated songsters to match the tremulous trill of their blue-blooded ancestors. The New York Canary club announces that more than 5,000 canaries will be in competition for prizes.

The wild canary is not more than five and one-half inches in length. Some of its domestic relations measure eight inches. Most of the varieties, of which twenty-seven were recognized as early as the Eighteenth century by French fanciers, differ merely in color and markings of the plumage.

The natural song of the canary is light and clear, and in their native groves, especially during mating season, the birds sometimes sing with such ardor that they burst the delicate vessels of the throat.

One of the most valued varieties has at first black wing and tail feathers, a peculiarity which disappears after the first molting. The less desirable are those on which the plumage is irregularly spotted and speckled.

A native of the Canary islands and Madeira, the canary was first domesticated in Italy in the Sixteenth century. It soon spread over Europe and later to America.

Princeton Students Earn $255,575 Working Way

New York.—The 530 men who are working their way in part or entirely through Princeton university earned last year a total of $255,574.33. These men constitute approximately one-fourth of the student body, and the financial remuneration was obtained in a diversity of ways, varying from scholarship winners to lip-readers and majordomos at club and private dances.

In announcing the above facts, Norvell B. Samuels, director of the bureau of student employment, cited an editorial in the Daily Princetonian, which said:

"When nearly 25 per cent of the Princeton undergraduate body is self-supporting, either wholly or partially, it argues a healthy attitude of mind toward work of all sorts done by men to earn a part of their college expenses.

"The preservation of an entirely democratic atmosphere is of the utmost importance in a community the size of Princeton."

Wellesley College Faculty Members Attending School

WELLESLEY, Mass.—Faculty members at Wellesley college have started going to school again. When they tell students that no one can ever learn enough, they meant it. "Keep on learning" is their motto.

A professor of economics decided that she ought to be able to speak and write French. She arranged to take lessons with a member of the French Department. Six other linguistic aspirants joined her and formed a private class which meets once a week. Another faculty member wanted to learn Spanish and prevailed on the Spanish Department to start a class in Spanish.

ANCIENT THEATRE IS NEAR COLLAPSE

MOSCOW.—The Theatre of Marcellus, built 1,940 years ago, is in danger of collapsing. Several stones have already dropped from the ancient walls and plans are being made to restore the building.

The theatre was built by the Emperor Augustus and was named in honor of his nephew, Marcellus. It combined the Doric, Ionic and Corinthian styles of architecture and was originally of three stories, the first floor being built below the ground level.

The outer wall of the auditorium was arched and several of these arches have been used for workshops in modern times.

Ducks Travel By Routes.

Wild ducks do not go helter skelter north and south when the seasons change. They travel by well defined air lanes, explaining why, out of 10,000 lakes in Minnesota, for instance, there are about 9,000 where a wild duck is never seen. These lanes in the air are known as duck "passes" and invariably new flocks find them and year in and year out the same course.

Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. Please settle argument. Which are the drumsticks, of a fowl, the legs or wings? W. W.

A. The drumsticks is the lower joint of the leg of a dressed fowl.

Q. Should iron supports be used for radio aerials? H. J. A.

A. The Loomis Radio college says that while it is generally believed that iron in the vicinity of an aerial absorbs some of the energy, iron supports are frequently employed for this purpose on account of their mechanical advantages. Observe the latticed steel towers used by all the large broadcasting stations, where receivers are also installed as required by law. The aerial should be well insulated from the iron pole and swung a few feet away from it by a stout rope. The other aerials should run as nearly as possible at right angles to each other. If they are one above the other in the same direction they will rob each other quite noticeably.

Q. Can ashes of burned money be redeemed? A. S.

A. Ashes of burned money can be analyzed and redeemed.

Q. In "The Two Gentlemen of Verona," I find the phrase "To their instruments tune a deploring dump." What does "dump" mean? A. C. S.

A. The term means a mournful piece of music.

Q. Is it correct to say that the sap in a plant goes up in the spring and down in the fall? L. H. T.

A. The old conception was that as soon as the leaves drop from trees, the sap or moisture in a tree went down. This idea is false as all through the winter the roots of the tree are absorbing moisture. The highest sap content is just before the leaves start in the spring. It would be more correct to say that the sap is continually going up in a tree instead of down. The water content of a maple tree in the fall of the year is 27 per cent, in the winter 32 per cent, and just before the leaves appear in the spring 39 per cent.

Q. What is the origin of the word punch as applied to beverages? M. N.

A. The vogue of mixing wine or water, lemon juice, sugar, spice and water was brought to England from India and it seems to be named from the Hindu word punch, meaning five, referring to the usual number of ingredients.

Q. Is coal now being formed beneath the earth's surface? J. F.

A. A fuel technologist says that there is no coal being formed under the earth's surface now and there never was. The coal that is now found under the earth's surface no matter how deep it may be was formed above the surface and later covered up. Coal was formed in ancient peat bogs in the same manner as peat is formed at the present time.

Q. Where was the "Los Angeles" built? P. B.

A. It was built by the Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen, Germany.

Q. What is a stich-down shoe? I. E.

A. A stich-down shoe is one in which the marginal portion of the upper or vamp is turned horizontally outward so that it lies like a flat flange upon the marginal portion of the top surface of the sole, with such flange fastened to the said portion of the sole by means of one or two lines of stitches passing veritally through the different thicknesses of material.

Q. Who played the role of Queen Isabella in the opera "Columbus" by Franchetti, when produced in Geneva in 1892? M. C.

A. Celannese Elvira played the part.

Q. When was it found that iron ships would float as well as wooden ones? C. W. K.

A. It is not recorded who first discovered that an iron vessel would float as easily as a wooden one. It is recorded that an iron boat was built and launched on the River Foss in Yorkshire, England, as early as 1777, but the date of the invention of iron as a recognized material for ship construction is often given as 1818 when the lighter "Vulcan" was built on the Monkland Canal near Glasgow, Scotland.

Q. How long has gold been known in this country? E. P. S.

A. The metal was known to the Indians as early as 1564. Mining was commenced in the Appalachians about 1792 and in California in 1848.

Q. What is expanded metal? N. L.

A. Expanded metal is a material of openwork or net-like appearance, manufactured by taking sheet metal, forming numerous short slits in it parallel with one another, such slits being made in lines which are quite close together and with the slits of one line alternated in position with those of the lines at both sides of it, and then stretching the metal in the plane of the sheet so as to spread the slits into fairly wide openings. An important use thereof is in the walls of buildings as a substitute for laths, for the support of the plastic material of which the walls are composed, it having among its advantages that of being fireproof.

It would be more correct to say that the sap is continually going up in a tree instead of down. The water content of a maple tree in the fall of the year is 27 per cent, in the winter 32 per cent, and just before the leaves appear in the spring 39 per cent.

Q. What is the origin of the word punch as applied to beverages? M. N.

A. The vogue of mixing wine or water, lemon juice, sugar, spice and water was brought to England from India and it seems to be named from the Hindu word punch, meaning five, referring to the usual number of ingredients.

Q. Is coal now being formed beneath the earth's surface? J. F.

A. A fuel technologist says that there is no coal being formed under the earth's surface now and there never was. The coal that is now found under the earth's surface no matter how deep it may be was formed above the surface and later covered up. Coal was formed in ancient peat bogs in the same manner as peat is formed at the present time.

Q. Where was the "Los Angeles" built? P. B.

A. It was built by the Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen, Germany.

Q. What is a stich-down shoe? I. E.

A. A stich-down shoe is one in which the marginal portion of the upper or vamp is turned horizontally outward so that it lies like a flat flange upon the marginal portion of the top surface of the sole, with such flange fastened to the said portion of the sole by means of one or two lines of stitches passing veritally through the different thicknesses of material.

Q. Who played the role of Queen Isabella in the opera "Columbus" by Franchetti, when produced in Geneva in 1892? M. C.

A. Celannese Elvira played the part.

Q. When was it found that iron ships would float as well as wooden ones? C. W. K.

A. It is not recorded who first discovered that an iron vessel would float as easily as a wooden one. It is recorded that an iron boat was built and launched on the River Foss in Yorkshire, England, as early as 1777, but the date of the invention of iron as a recognized material for ship construction is often given as 1818 when the lighter "Vulcan" was built on the Monkland Canal near Glasgow, Scotland.

Q. How long has gold been known in this country? E. P. S.

A. The metal was known to the Indians as early as 1564. Mining was commenced in the Appalachians about 1792 and in California in 1848.

Q. What is expanded metal? N. L.

A. Expanded metal is a material of openwork or net-like appearance, manufactured by taking sheet metal, forming numerous short slits in it parallel with one another, such slits being made in lines which are quite close together and with the slits of one line alternated in position with those of the lines at both sides of it, and then stretching the metal in the plane of the sheet so as to spread the slits into fairly wide openings. An important use thereof is in the walls of buildings as a substitute for laths, for the support of the plastic material of which the walls are composed, it having among its advantages that of being fireproof.

Announcement that Grange and his supporting cast would play here was made today. At the same time Manager S. W. Parrat, announced that the contract provided that Grange should rest after his Sunday appearance until his game here, in order to assure Ohio fans that the Wheaton "ghost" will be in top form for the contest.

DELANEY LOSES TO BERLENBACH

Fails to Follow up Advantage in Fourth Round.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—"Be sure you're right and then go ahead,' said some sap who never won a boxing title.

And last night at Madison Square Garden, Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., made absolutely sure that he was right and then went ahead exactly one minute, sixty seconds and the sixtieth part of an hour too late.

He cocked Paul Berlenbach on the chin in the fourth round and sat the latter down. But the latter got up, contrary to their last meeting, and Delaney didn't seem to know what to do about it. He was careful, sane, deliberate and unflurried.

In fact, hew as too careful, too sane too deliberate and two unflurried. While he deliberated, a rather bovine gentleman who had a glazed eye and a pair of very neighborly knees, recovered his sense of proportion, or whatever it was he needed, and simultaneously, the light heavyweight championship of the world elected to ignore Bridgeport and remain in New York.

For, from the sixth round on to the fifteenth, Berlenbach bulled his way to the decision, as he of necessity must. He is less a fighter than a catch-as-can-miss wrestler but he happens to be a champion and two judges and a referee decided that he deserved to retin the honor. He did.

Berlenbach did all the forcing, all the fighting. Delaney all the blocking, side-stepping and countering. In a blow for blow survey, the Bridgeport entry probably outscored Berlenbach. In the round for round returns, he quite decidedly did, by a matter of eight rounds to six with one even.

DENIES TAKING COLUMBIA JOB

Rockne Asserts He'll be Back at Notre Dame Next Year.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 12.—Columbia University's annual announcement of a Rockne contract created little furore here today, although university authorities were a trifle puzzled at its pointedness.

Rev. Mathew Walsh, president of the university, interceded for Rockne at this end by making public a long distance telephone conversation with the coach immediately after publication of Columbia's announcement in a Philadephia paper, where Rockne is visiting.

"There is no truth whatever in the report," Father Walsh quoted Rockne as saying. "I will return to the university next fall and for subsequent falls until my coaching days are over."

Mrs. Rockne, interviewed at the home early today, assured university authorities that Rockne had made no moves to terminate his reign at Notre Dame.

Rockne, on his return to South Bend, will leave soon for a vacation on the Kansas ranch of Jesse Harper, his old coach and father of the Notre Dame system.

LISBON FIVE HERE MONDAY

Dodge Motors to Battle Powers on I. O. O. F. Court.

The city's first semi-pro cage clash of the season will be staged on Monday night when the Power quint is scheduled to take on the fast Dodge Motors of Lisbon on the Odd Fellows court.

The Lisbonites established a fine record last year and are confident they can repeat. The Powers, who won 25 and lost seven last season, have started off on the right foot this year with six consecutive victories.

The locals will have their regular squad on the court, including E. Bucher, Mensforth, Ashbaugh, H. Dickey, Cochran, Rockhold, Jester, Stuart, H. Smith and Captain Cunningham.

The Lisbon line-up will find Sexton and Burnip at forwards, Hum at center, and Neigh and Bye at guard, with Stockman, Henderson, Haun and Burnette in reserve.

Two girls' teams will put on the preliminary—the East Liverpool High Selects and the Lisbon High Selects starting at 7 o'clock.

Ohio Quints Welcome Back Veteran Players

By Stanley D. Koch.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 12.—Never were the veterans of Civil, Spanish-American or World wars given half the enthusiastic reception that is being awarded the veterans of the Ohio Coonference basketball squad. For it is around these old timers that each basketball coach is trying to build a conference winner.

At Denison, five of the letter men are back and the big Red lineup will probably include Retting and Curry, the latter a new man, at forwards; Behan, center, and Captain Jenkins with either Nicholson or Ashbrook at guards.

Four veterans are back at Otterbein, Captain Widdoes, Upson and Stair, forwards; and Carroll, guard. Of the recruits, Barnes, Buell, Van Buren and McMichael look best, with the additional aid of Prosky, a varsity man of two years ago and Snavely, last year's forward who will be in play as soon as his football injuries are healed.

Three vets at Hiram.

Hiram has three old men in Captain Frank Hurd, center, Robert Day, forward, an Myers, a guard. Other promising material includes: Barbe, forward and E. Hurd and Broadkhurst guards. The Cherry and Blue is facing a stiff schedule with an apparent lack of substitutes.

At Ohio Wesleyan, Coach Van Alstyne is building his 1925-6 machine around Captain Bill Turney and Lamme, his two stellar point getters of last year's team. A brace of substitutes from last season add Hill and Harlow to his list and this group with Helwig, Campbell, Berno and Blickle represent the battling bishops' varsity squad. Lamme and Hill at forwards, Turney at center and Campbell and Harlow at guards will probably be the first team.

With nine home games on its schedule, Wooster faces another hard season with more material than for the past several years. Captain Pfeiffer, Dodez, McGlashan, Junkin and Langell are the veterans. Anderson, Hole and McVicker of last year's squad are back and Blough Olson and Jolliff are the best of the new men.

St. Javier in Good Shape.

Three forwards and a trio of guards are the old men back at St. Javier. Reynolds, Bray and Weiner are the first named three with Kelly, Albers and Healey for the returning guards. King, who starred at center last year is probably out for the year due to a broken leg sustained in football. Of the newcomers, McGrath, Williams and Hess at center, Tehan, Cline and Specht for guards and presto, Dawson and Burns, forwards, look best.

A quintet of veterans are on hand at Cincinnati and despite the eligibility rules that barred Captain Klein and Barsdale a week ago, Coach Boyd Chambers anticipates a good season for his Bearcats. Bolton, a sophomore star, will probably be shifted to guard with Valentine, Schmidt and Mehl to take care of the forwards and the center position will be either Maddux or Allen. Other squad men back include Jones, McFarland, Myers and Stroud, with Lockman. Dial and Newmark as the best looking of the recruits.

Oberlin Faces Tough Job.

With only one man of last year's varsity in college, Oberlin is facing a tough job. Captain Leahy, right forward, is the lone survivor and Coach McEachron must pick out his remaining players from Tessenvit, Montie and Heldman of the substitutes, and Fleming, Hosfield, Gleason and MasPhee of the last year freshman squad.

Defeated by Indiana in the non-conference game a few days ago, Miami is getting down to real work for the Ohio schedule. The present lineup inclues Ford, at center; Pilot, last year's captain, and Darling at forwards, Captain Dixon and Taylor at guards. The latter is the only man who hasn't had varsity experience. Coach Tillotson has a raft of capable substitutes in Clinger, center; Ewbanks, Leahy and Bowers, forwards, and Zipfel, Buchanan and Flowers at guards.

SUNDAY SCHOOL GAMES TONIGHT

Two Sunday school cage league contests are billed tonight on the Y. M. C. A. court.

The Christians and the Methodist Protestants will clash in the main attraction, with the Christian Juniors and the U. P. Juniors tangling in the preliminary.

The prelim will get under way at 7:15 and the main go at 8:15.

And last night at Madison Square Garden, Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., made absolutely sure that he was right and then went ahead exactly one minute, sixty seconds and the sixtieth part of an hour too late.

He cocked Paul Berlenbach on the chin in the fourth round and sat the latter down. But the latter got up, contrary to their last meeting, and Delaney didn't seem to know what to do about it. He was careful, sane, deliberate and unflurried.

In fact, hew as too careful, too sane too deliberate and two unflurried. While he deliberated, a rather bovine gentleman who had a glazed eye and a pair of very neighborly knees, recovered his sense of proportion, or whatever it was he needed, and simultaneously, the light heavyweight championship of the world elected to ignore Bridgeport and remain in New York.

For, from the sixth round on to the fifteenth, Berlenbach bulled his way to the decision, as he of necessity must. He is less a fighter than a catch-as-can-miss wrestler but he happens to be a champion and two judges and a referee decided that he deserved to retin the honor. He did.

Berlenbach did all the forcing, all the fighting. Delaney all the blocking, side-stepping and countering. In a blow for blow survey, the Bridgeport entry probably outscored Berlenbach. In the round for round returns, he quite decidedly did, by a matter of eight rounds to six with one even.

DENIES TAKING COLUMBIA JOB

Rockne Asserts He'll be Back at Notre Dame Next Year.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 12.—Columbia University's annual announcement of a Rockne contract created little furore here today, although university authorities were a trifle puzzled at its pointedness.

Rev. Mathew Walsh, president of the university, interceded for Rockne at this end by making public a long distance telephone conversation with the coach immediately after publication of Columbia's announcement in a Philadelphia paper, where Rockne is visiting.

"There is no truth whatever in the report," Father Walsh quoted Rockne as saying. "I will return to the university next fall and for subsequent falls until my coaching days are over."

Mrs. Rockne, interviewed at the home early today, assured university authorities that Rockne had made no moves to terminate his reign at Notre Dame.

Rockne, on his return to South Bend, will leave soon for a vacation on the Kansas ranch of Jesse Harper, his old coach and father of the Notre Dame system.

LISBON FIVE HERE MONDAY

Dodge Motors to Battle Powers on I. O. O. F. Court.

The city's first semi-pro cage clash of the season will be staged on Monday night when the Power quint is scheduled to take on the fast Dodge Motors of Lisbon on the Odd Fellows court.

The Lisbonites established a fine record last year and are confident they can repeat. The Powers, who won 25 and lost seven last season, have started off on the right foot this year with six consecutive victories.

The locals will have their regular squad on the court, including E Bucher, Mensforth, Ashbaugh, H. Dickey, Cochran, Rockhold, Jester, Stuart, H. Smith and Captain Cunningham.

The Lisbon line-up will find Sexton and Burnip at forwards, Hum at center, and Neigh and Bye at guard, with Stockman, Henderson, Haun and Burnette in reserve.

Two girls' teams will put on the preliminary—the East Liverpool High Selects and the Lisbon High Selects starting at 7 o'clock.

Ohio Quints Welcome Back Veteran Players

By Stanley D. Koch.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 12.—Never were the veterans of Civil, Spanish-American or World wars given half the enthusiastic reception that is being awarded the veterans of the Ohio Coonference basketball squad. For it is around these old timers that each basketball coach is trying to build a conference winner.

At Denison, five of the letter men are back and the big Red lineup will probably include Retting and Curry, the latter a new man, at forwards; Behan, center, and Captain Jenkins with either Nicholson or Ashbrook at guards.

Four veterans are back at Otterbein, Captain Widdoes, Upson and Stair, forwards; and Carroll, guard. Of the recruits, Barnes, Buell, Van Buren and McMichael look best, with the additional aid of Prosky, a varsity man of two years ago and Snavely, last year's forward who will be in play as soon as his football injuries are healed.

Three vets at Hiram.

Hiram has three old men in Captain Frank Hurd, center, Robert Day, forward, an Myers, a guard. Other promising material includes: Barbe, forward and E. Hurd and Broadkhurst guards. The Cherry and Blue is facing a stiff schedule with an apparent lack of substitutes.

At Ohio Wesleyan, Coach Van Alstyne is building his 1925-6 machine around Captain Bill Turney and Lamme, his two stellar point getters of last year's team. A brace of substitutes from last season add Hill and Harlow to his list and this group with Helwig, Campbell, Berno and Blickle represent the battling bishops' varsity squad. Lamme and Hill at forwards, Turney at center and Campbell and Harlow at guards will probably be the first team.

With nine home games on its schedule, Wooster faces another hard season with more material than for the past several years. Captain Pfeiffer, Dodez, McGlashan, Junkin and Langell are the veterans. Anderson, Hole and McVicker of last year's squad are back and Blough Olson and Jolliff are the best of the new men.

St. Javier in Good Shape.

Three forwards and a trio of guards are the old men back at St. Javier. Reynolds, Bray and Weiner are the first named three with Kelly, Albers and Healey for the returning guards. King, who starred at center last year is probably out for the year due to a broken leg sustained in football. Of the newcomers, McGrath, Williams and Hess at center, Tehan, Cline and Specht for guards and presto, Dawson and Burns, forwards, look best.

A quintet of veterans are on hand at Cincinnati and despite the eligibility rules that barred Captain Klein and Barsdale a week ago, Coach Boyd Chambers anticipates a good season for his Bearcats. Bolton, a sophomore star, will probably be shifted to guard with Valentine, Schmidt and Mehl to take care of the forwards and the center position will be either Maddux or Allen. Other squad men back include Jones, McFarland, Myers and Stroud, with Lockman, Dial and Newmark as the best looking of the recruits.

Oberlin Faces Tough Job.

With only one man of last year's varsity in college, Oberlin is facing a tough job. Captain Leahy, right forward, is the lone survivor and Coach McEachron must pick out his remaining players from Tessenvit, Montie and Heldman of the substitutes, and Fleming, Hosfield, Gleason and MasPhee of the last year freshman squad.

Defeated by Indiana in the non-conference game a few days ago, Miami is getting down to real work for the Ohio schedule. The present lineup inclues Ford, at center; Pilot, last year's captain, and Darling at forwards, Captain Dixon and Taylor at guards. The latter is the only man who hasn't had varsity experience. Coach Tillotson has a raft of capable substitutes in Clinger, center; Ewbanks, Leahy and Bowers, forwards, and Zipfel, Buchanan and Flowers at guards.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Dave G. McDonald, well known Pittsburgh horseman, will head the Union Trotting association for the coming year.

The Christians and the Methodist Protestants will clash in the main attraction, with the Christian Juniors and the U. P. Juniors tangling in the preliminary.

The prelim will get under way at 7:15 and the main go at 8:15.

The Lowest Priced PEERLESS ever built—$1595

F. O. B. FACTORY

Series 6-80

EVERYONE was amazed when the word was flashed—"A Peerless Sedan for $1595!"

Yet there it is—the 6-80—a real Peerless!

Built in the same factory and by the same quality methods that produced the far costlier Peerless Eight and the powerful Peerless 6-72.

Only mounting production and advanced engineering make such value possible. Value that sets the pace for the world! Value that in a few short weeks has literally swept this new car into tremendous popularity!

A Big Roomy Body!

Picture a sedan with a 116 inch wheelbase, yet possessing a body roomier and more comfortable than that of many larger cars.

Give it speed that's absolutely vibrationless at 50—60—yes, upwards of 70 miles an hour. Speed developed by a motor made unbelievably smooth with a seven-bearing crankshaft and Lanchester dampener.

Imagine it easier to turn, to steer, to park, to handle in traffic than any car you've ever known.

Safer, Easier Driving

Endow it with every improvement that makes for safer, easier, more comfortable driving. Quick-acting, oversize hydraulic 4-wheel brakes. Long, flat springs. 3200 pounds of staunch road weight. Wide, correctly tilted seats. Balloon tires....

There you have the new Peerless 6-80 Sedan. You must see it to realize that an inexpensive car can be so beautiful. You must drive it to know that any car can have so many new advantages. The Peerless dealer is waiting to prove these things to you.

Save now ~ for a Chevrolet

We Pay You 6%

Get ready to drive a new Chevrolet. It's easy to do the Certificate way.

Come in tomorrow and choose the model you prefer. Make the first down payment—say $5—and we issue to you a Chevrolet Purchase Certificate that pays you 6%. Weekly or monthly you keep adding to your Certificate savings. When your payments plus this 6% interest equal the cash delivery payment, you drive the car away and take care of the balance in regular monthly installments on the lowest time payment plan in existence.

All money which you pay on your Certificate is deposited in a trust fund at a bank. In addition to this safeguard for your Certificate payments, both the bank and we ourselves are insured by a strong, well-known insurance company so that absolute protection for your funds is assured.

If you now own a car, we will credit your Certificate with an additional 6% on all service, repairs, and accessories which you buy from us. This is in addition to the 6% interest earned on the money you invest in your Certificate.

Here is the simplest, safest, easiest, thriftiest way to buy a car ever devised. Come in today! Learn how easy it is to own a quality Chevrolet.

All money which you pay on your Certificate is deposited in a trust fund at a bank. In addition to this safeguard for your Certificate payments, both the bank and we ourselves are insured by a strong, well-known insurance company so that absolute protection for your funds is assured.

If you now own a car, we will credit your Certificate with an additional 6% on all service, repairs, and accessories which you buy from us. This is in addition to the 6% interest earned on the money you invest in your Certificate.

Tango Fashionable Dance of Season in British Metropolis

LONDON.—The tango is the fashionable dance of the season. Reason: The Prince of Wales displayed perfect familarity with the four steps of the new French tango at a recent large charity ball.

The Charleston has made little headway in London and is being rapidly relegated to the limbo of forgotten things, but the regulation fox trot remains popular.

Tango Fashionable Dance of Season in British Metropolis

LONDON.—The tango is the fashionable dance of the season. Reason: The Prince of Wales displayed perfect familarity with the four steps of the new French tango at a recent large charity ball.

The Charleston has made little headway in London and is being rapidly relegated to the limbo of forgotten things, but the regulation fox trot remains popular.

"and that one word is VALUE"

When an article of outstanding merit is offered to the public its success becomes immediate. And so it is with the latest Oldsmobile. Only one word can explain its quick acceptance and success:

"—and that one word is Value!"

Comparison and demonstration prove Oldsmobile's value. Increasing demand verifies it. Owner satisfaction confirms it.

Still another value-advantage is available to the man who buys an Oldsmobile on time through General Motors' own financing plan. GMAC rates, always the lowest, are now even lower. Let us show you the GMAC rate card and learn how easy it is to own an Oldsmobile!

Eve Started It~Woman Has Been at It Ever Since

Let parsons and others attempt all they will
To lecture the opposite sex,
And try to convince them they find too much thrill
In indulging the beauty complex.
They may be sincere in this work of reform,
But futile will be their endeavor,
For what's been woman's way since the earliest day
Is going to contiue forever.—Montague.
